THE CONCERT AT CEDAR BAR.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY CALEB DUNN.

He was a strolling minstrel, and through sunny days and damp He roamed about the country on a long and weary tramp.

Through cities and through villages he ever followed fate.

From the borders of the Hudson far toward the Golden Gate. Like Goldsmith when he wandered up and down

He sweetly played upon a flute where'er he chanced And oft his simple playing won for him an humble

On which at night he laid him down to rest his weary head.

The light of reason in his mind had feeble grown and dim, And blindness, that well nigh shut out the world had come to him When, penniless, though cheerful still, his long tramp he began

And over hills and valleys roved—a lone and home less man. Oft in the mellow Summer time his couch was

'neath a tree Fanned by the pleasant breeze that came to him most gratefully,

And in the days of frost and snow he sometimes made his bed Within the welcome shelter of some dark and lowly shed.

One night he reached a mining camp far in the wooded West. And at a lodge permission sought to tarry and to

"If you will let me stay with you this stormy night," he said, "I'll be content beside the fire to make my humble

And if you're fond of music I for you some tunes will play, Which will recall the homes you've left so many miles away." "Come in, old man," the miners said, "and we will try to make Your stay with us a pleasant one for charity's

Come in and take a sup with us, and when we all get through Our evening meal, we'll smoke our pipes and list, old man, to you.

And there, in that far mountain land he found a welcome warm-A greeting most hospitable, a shelter from the

And when the meal was over, sitting by the great log fire, With those hardy men around him, worn and scarred by perils dire, With touching pathos he began an old familiar tune, Sweet as the melody of birds that sing the songs of

III. He played the air of "Home, Sweet Home" until he saw great tears

Shine like bright pearl drops in the eyes of these brave pioneers.

"Play it again, old man," they said, "for it brings memories sweet Of mothers and of children dear we hope some day

And while we take our toddy, and without the storm winds blow

Just play that same old tune again, and play it soft and low.' Sweet as the music was before, it now seemed sweeter far

To these hard-handed mining men encamped at And when the minstrel dropped his flute the sweet refrain

The tears were flowing from the eyes of those strong men again; For it brought dreams of loving ones whose smiles they had not seen For many months, since they in quest of golden lore had been.

It made them feel that oceans broad and prairies vast and wide. True hearts that ever fondly love and mate, can not

And then he played another tune, and asked them

In singing it-'twas all about the days of auld lang syne, And these stern men of Cedar Bar, who there had cast their lot,

Joined hands and sang the song, "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot."

If Bobby Burns's spirit could have happened there just then. Twould have felt proud to hear that song sung by these sturdy men. Whose voices, husky though they were, and never trained by art, evoices that were echoes of deep feeling in the heart. And there they sat and sang old songs till the wee hours of night, Led by the strolling minstrel who had brought them

And when the singing ended, and the miners sought their rest A sweet, refining peacefulness was dwelling in each

They left the old man sitting in a chair beside the

A poor, forlorn and lonely man-a wanderer of the earth.

What dreams he had of brighter days that from him long had gone, What hopes of some sweet bye and bye will never now be known,

For when the miners 'rose at dawn they found that life had fledminstrel by the fireless hearth sat cold, and stiff and dead. They buried him close to the foot of a tall moun-was dead loads of money in it for both of us. To finish up I went on and told how we could do the museums for a high figur, catch on to a circus, or "He used to talk with me by the hour out at the work the fairs.

"Well, I never heard from her. S'pose her Jim interfered. Yes, that's a fair sized snake, but nothing to what I've seen in my time. Say, do you know there's a great snap for some one to fit out an expedition and capture the sea serpent? I guess Jim Bailey is after him now, for the last time I saw him I mentioned the subject and he said:

" I've no doubt of the existence of the sea ser pent, and that it would be the greatest curiosity ever exhibited. If I do fit out an expedition I shall put it in charge of Jules Verne.

"It run in his head, as it does in mine, that there's lots of strange varmints hid away in the uttermost parts of the earth, if some one has only got the blunt and the nerve to hunt 'em.

"You can see that this chap and I agreed on many points, and as he made a better fist with a pen than I, he wrote a letter on the subject to both

"Saw what?" asked I.
"The father of all snakes,' he answered in a whisper and a warning 'hush '

"He appeared to be excited, and trembled some.
"Where?" I asked, getting excited, too. It allers excites me to talk snake. If there's anything I do like it is a good big snake.

'Over there " said he, pointing over his right shoulder towards a tangly, meshy spot.
"'How big?' I asked, meaning the snaix.

'The father of all makes!' he answered, shaking in his boots.

"'Size?' I persisted.

Full one hundred foot long, as large around in the middle as a flour barrel, and as beautiful in color as a peacock, his scales lap and clap as he moves like a rattling armor, his eyes are like elec-tric lights and illuminate the whole country round, when he chooses he throws himself almost erect and looks over the top of the tallest trees, his hiss in anger is as the escaping steam from a locometive and he bellows in anger like an enraged buil."

"At first I didn't know but his literary labors had upset his brain, as most people who take to writing for The Review are more or less off but he seemed natural like, except nervous. If he'd been a drink ing man I might have thought he was off, bu knowing that he never touched it I could only be lieve that he had turned up the boss snake.

"I knew then and I know now that somewhere on earth there's big snakes, but I was not looking for one down in Alabama.

'Yes,' said the balloon man, I have seen the father of all snakes, and it is the proudest day of my life. But in this discovery, a triumph as it was, I am at the same time disappointed. It has upset all my preconceived theories that the boa con-strictor of today is but a deterioration from a more gigantic of its kind. The make has nothing in common with the boa. Nothing remains for me to do now but destroy my manuscript, and then 1 shall lead the way and we shall see the father of all

"I wasn't so anxious to go, and still I was too proud to acknowledge that I was afraid. We made a bonfire of that Review article pretty quick, and to make a short job of it fed the flames with a little of the balloon alcohol. When all his writing was made into ashes we started for the jungly, swampy place to look for the snake. "My! I was afraid, but I wouldn't confess it. I wasn't anxious to meet any snaix that looked over the top of trees, but I was so sort of infatuated at the same time that, although I was scared half out of my life, I had to go along.

"It is the greatest discovery of modern times," he said, and my name will be handed down to posterity in letters of gold."

"He pushed on so rapidly that I could scarcely keep up with him, and my face and hands were bleeding and torn in my hurried passage through the tangle of briars and undergrowth. We must have gone a mile, when he stopped and listened for a moment and then exclaimed:

"I hear him!"
"I heard nothing. On we went again. Once more he halted.

"Be cautious, we are gaining on him"
"The sweat oozed from my pores, my teeth rat-tled in time to the chattering of his. I hesitated, but he dragged me forward until in one glad shout of triumph he yelled:

'I see him !

'Here he is-here he is !' screamed the balloon man. I opened my eyes and asked:
"'Where?"

"He fell writhing to the ground in a paroxysm and moaned:

"In my boots! in my boots!

"Why, the fellow had the tremens, and on the quiet was a regular lush! To nerve himself up so as to make the balloon ascension, he was in the habit of nipping at the alcohol jug until he had brought on

"Well, he pulled through and it almost broke his heart when he found that he had burned his articler The Review while he was off his base."

M. MARIUS.

Like many others who have made for themselves names upon the stage, C. D. Marius, the subject of our portrait, was originally intended for the commercial world, and began life in a silk and velvet warehouse in Paris, but gratified his leanings for the drama by appearing first in the evening as a super at the Folies Dramatique; from that he rose to be a chorister, was then entrusted with small parts, and became a regular member of the company in 1868, at the age of eighteen. Manager Mansell of London, visiting Paris in 1809, and thinking highly of M. Marius' capabilities, engaged him to play Landry in "Chilperic," and subsequent in "Little Faust." war breaking out, M. Marius returned to France, and was drafted into the 7th Battalion of Chasseurs a-pied; was present in three engagements, th more notable one on Dec. 2, 1870, at Champigny: was sent to Marseilles, and subsequently to Co with his regiment, to quell the Commune. turned to London in 1871, and reappeared at the Philharmonic in "Genevieve de Brabant," an-next at the Strand in "Nemesia." Since then M Marius has played in every theatre in London on parts in seventeen years. He is now under en gagement with Mrs. Bernard-Beere at the Opera Comique, where his recent success as Count Paul Dromiroff in "As in a Looking Glass." and the Chevalier de Valence in "Ariane," are too well known to require further comment. He is the hus-band of Plorence St. John; the singer.

THE FATHER OF ALL SNAKES.

WRITTEN POR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY CHARLES H. DAY.

"Come in a few minutes and chin; there's no use of my blowing my lungs out at this hour of the day. Set down and make yourself comfortable. Squat on that box, that'll do, and I'll try the soft end of this barrel. Trade isn't over good; not what it used to be. This store is a mighty good location, as you can see, but people don't drop into store shows the way they used to.

"I lay the fa!ling off in store sideshows to dime museums; if I'd been smart I'd had capital enough to had one of my own years ago, but never mind, I've done fair to middling if I ain't as rich as Pat Harris Kohl & Middleton and Jacobs & Proctor-they've all done well.

"Time was when I could take a mermaid and an' organ an' a snake an' a cage of monks and do big; it ain't so now; you've got to have something extraordinary to catch 'em. I'm always keeping an eye out, and when I heard of Mrs. James Brown Potter hobnobbing with the Prince, said I, there's a chance for me, and I wrote her a letter all the way to London explaining the snap and proposing eral enough, wasn't it? This was the racket, I wanted her to do a bricash. And I writ all about the photograph racket, and explained that there "Then, said I:

For he who had no biding-place to Cedar Bar had that I am ready to start any time that he is.

"With that I gave him my permanent address. But referring to snakes and sea serpents, that reminds me of the boss snake. I never saw it my self, but a friend of mine did.

We were out with George W. De Haven with a circus, and traveling down South. I had charge of the freak show, and we were depending principally for a drawing card on a free balloon as

You have seen too many of them go up like a skyrocket hot air affair for me to dilate on to it at any great length. You know how inexpensively they are, a canvas balloon filled with the gas generated by the burning of a quantity of alcohol and fat pine wood.

"She'd go up! there was no mistake about that. if the weather was favorable, but in rain it was no go. Of course, when the gas cooled in the balloon she'd just drop short metre.

"We had a chap 'long with the show that was the daring aeronaut; that's what the bills called him. Funny I never knew his name, but that's nothing strange around a trick; you know that. He got to be known as 'the balloon mau,' and if he had any name, and of course he had, he must have forgotten it himself. Even on the treasurer's book he was put down as Bailoon Man. And just let me remark right here that treasurer knew more about mathematics than a 'rithmetic, and could sell show tickets twice as fast as they could buy

The balloon man was, I reckon, one of those men who had seen better days. He knew how to etiquette, and when a man knows how to etiquette he shows his bringing up. Then he was very geo-

Forepaugh and Barnum. Acting on my suggeshe got an idea that he hal been drinking, and wrote: "I have been a very busy man for nearly eighty years, and I have found that the best cure for snakes is a frequent internal application of cold P. S .- Water on the outside, with soap, is a good thing."

Forepaugh he never answered at all, and we sent him a bill for the two cent stamp we enclosed fo an answer. Old Adams, he's a loke, too; he just sent the bill back prepaid, making the accoun-"The balloon man was real hurt at Mr. Barnum's he would have taken to drink in consequence when the facts of the case were he was the model est temperance man around the entire sap brush He invariably refused to drink, but had no object the balloon put up, he and I would have a long con fab on our favorite subjects, and then he took to writing his views, and he told me that he was going to publish an article in The North American Review on 'The Zoological Unknown' Together with the Snakes of Supposition.' "Classical and beautiful title, wasn't it? never completed it; too bad. he had just wound up the introductory, and the manuscript only filled a trunk. I wish I had it That fellow had more knowledge than Yale and Harvard put together.

'One day he came to me, and said he "'I saw it today."

THE VICTORELLIS write complaining that John B. Wills and wife, May Adams, with whom they have lately been traveling, suddenly left the combination in Troy, N. Y., last week, without paying salaries. They soothingly add that Manager Wills and Alfred P. Beavens were subsequently arrested upon complaint of George Taylor, of the Revere House, and legally compelled to pay board bills contracted. Many in the company were left entirely penniless.

W. H. Rikger has strained his voice, and has been compelled to leave Dockstader's Minstrets. He will rest for a short time.

At the Florence Music Hall, Bridgeport, Ct., this week: Johnny Marx, Jennie Warner, Lillie Howard, Laura Moore and Jack Fox.

MANAGER D. W. TRUSS and Mr. Hertig of the T., P. & W. Minstrels were CLIPPER callers June 25.

Mr. Truss remains in the city, full of business.

Mr. Hertig is at Bath Beach, L. L. for the warm spell.

LEOPOLD AND BUNELL write cheerfully concerning the success of their tour of the Pacific slope in company with Dockstader's Minstrels. JOE ROYER is at Hot Springs, Ark., for the Sum-

JOE ROYER is at Hot Springs, Ark., for the Summer.

THE THREE BROS. BYRNE have arrived in this city to join for next season the Thatcher, Primrose & West Minstrels. These London novelties are pretty sure to create a sensation, if the reports that have come in advance of them are to be credited. They make all manner of comicality out of a trick carriage, using illusion doors, etc. Their novelty is fully protected, we are informed.

MANAGER KIT CLARKE has returned from his trouting excursion to Lake Edward, Can. Luck played his way. He brought back substantial evidences of his well known skill at angling, and also a tanned skin and a general air of improved health. Thus equipped, he is ready to hustle again.

a tanned skin and a general air of improved health. Thus equipped, he is ready to hustle again.

WILLIAM H. WEST and wife are at the Avon Beach Hotel, Bath, L. I., for the Summer. Work on Mr. West's costly villa, overlooking Gravesend Bay, is rapidly progressing. When completed it will be, beyond doubt, the handsomost residence at Bath Beach. Mr. West's horses were transferred to the Beach this week.

GEORGE H. PRIMROSE'S good will towards his professional brothers was substantially shown June 23, when he tendered to the Doris & Sullivan Circus the free use of his extensive grounds at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., for their exhibitions on that date. Mr. Primrose also acted as host for John L. Sullivan, doing the honors with his accustomed urbanity. There is a good deal of Mr. Primrose's handiwork in Mt. Vernon nowadays, by the way. The recent big addition to his real estate holdings there he intends to convert into a basebail park. A Primrose Baseball Club already carries his name and wears the natty uniforms designed and furnished by the middle member of the T., P. & W. firm.

HARRY MEYER will be in advance of Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels.

ALEX. DAVIS, the ventriloquist, returned to the city this week, disgusted with the brief and dissartrous tour of the Merritt & "Stanley" Minstrels, the disbandment of which is noted by one of our Canada correspondents. Mr. Davis is severe in his denunciation of Mr. Merritt, who, he claims, was the sole responsible member of the firm; and had organized a tour without the shadow of financial soundness. A number of the unfortunate members of the troupe are left at Brantford, Can., and are in distress.

The agile Marinelli arrived back from Tacoma, W. T., June 25, and speaks in the most glowing terms of his trip through the far Northwest. He sails for Europe 27, and will play some important engagements, opening in Berlin, Ger., in September. He will remain abroad all next season. Mr. Marinelli speaks in the highest terms of his engagement with John Cort, of the Standard Theatre, Seattle, W. T., 14.

Harky Fruns, Leona De Forrest and Amanda Bergmann opened at the Apollo lee Palace, Evansville, Ind., June 25, for two weeks.

RICHARD FITZGERALD sailed for England June 23.

He went out with T. S. Baldwin, the parachute celebrity. Mr. Fitzgerald will scour the foreign market for novelty people to bring back with him.

STRATTON & HENDERSON'S PAVILION, Coney Island, opened June 17 with the following people: John and Nellie Healy, Crosby and Wray, Ed. and Lizzle Aarons, S. G. Beasley, Hearne and McGill, and Connors and Collins. They remain this week with the addition of Daly and Devere and the Winstanley Bros. Ed. Aarons is the manager.

IDA REYNOLDS and John B. Williams, of Rayner and Williams, were married on the stage of the Academy of Music, Mt. Vernon, Ind., June 14. So we are informed by Harry Bruss.

BILLY A. CHASE has arrived in town from the West, where, it is said, he had been meeting with success.

NEW JERSEY.

Atlantic City.—The weather is propitious for good business, making theatrical matters here livelier.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE .- Business for the opening week was light, as the bulk of the better class of Grand Opera House.—Business for the opening week was light, as the bulk of the better class of people from whom this house may expect to draw its patronage have not yet arrived. Better houses are looked for this week, when the Carleton Opera Co. begins a two weeks'engagement. "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief' will be given June 25, 26, 27, "The Mikado? 28 and "Merry War" 29, 30. Next week, "Nanon." The Wednesday matinees have been discontinued.

Howard's Pier will be opened July 12 by Rising & Hamilton's Opera Co., who will produce for the opening attraction Westendorf's new American opera "Florette." The company, which will be under the management of J. N. Fort, will be as follows: Loie Fuller, Will S. Rising, Wm. Hamilton, Annie Lippincott (Grace Greenwood's daughter), Annie E. Jaynes, Emily Northup, Wm. Daly and Fred Fread. Pending the opening Vivian A Peperno's "Galatea," the living statue, is being exhibited on the board walk end of the pier.

GUVERNATOR'S PAVILION TIBATHE.—New people for week of 25; Gallagher and West, Frank Majliton and the Gray Sisters. Remaining: Nellie Parker, Maud Chatwood, Byron and Blanch, Ruby Hart, Lillian Paine and James and Lydia Sheeran. Business is excellent.

BOWKEN'S PALIACE PAVILION.—The opening bill at this place, for week of 25, is: Needham and Kelly, Emma Bell, Landis and Steel, Sato, Mabel Steel, Mackin and Curdy, Amy Elmore, and the Shelby Bros. Jno. B. Mackin is manager.

DOYLE'S PAVILIONS.—The bill at No. 1 for week of 25 comprises the same people as mentioned last week. Businesshas been good, Frank Goldie, the manager, has been kept busy answering the letters received in consequence of his CLIPPER adlast week. Preparations for the opening of Pavilion No. 2, July 2, are in progress.

WAYELETS.—Rumor has it that Val Vino and Bessie Searle will be married here soon....Schaufler's Ocncert Garden will open June 30. Prof. Beerhalter's orchestra of nineteen pieces, and E. E. Nickerson, the cornet soloist, will be the attraction.....Lydia Sheeran was presented with a handsom handsome basket of flowers 23 by little G. E. Guvernator. ... Four carloads of scenery and appointments for Pain & Son's "Burning of Moscow" arrived here 23. A grand display of flreworks will be given by this firm July 4.....The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Horneige, professionally known as Harry Hogau and Nellie Howard, was christened 24, being named James Sheeran Horreige. ...The Lynch Family ary resting here.

They have a date at Doyle's later in the season.

Hoboken.-Ada Melrose makes her first appear

Hoboken.—Ada Melrose makes her first appearance in this city at Jacobs' Theatre as a dramatic star in her own play of "Roxy" week of June 25. Manager II. W. Semon and Treasurer G. W. King will benefit the entire week. The engagement of James Owen O'Connor and wife will no doubt help swell the receipts. Claire Scott closed a fair week 23. The theatre will close after this week. The engine the receipts. Claire Scott closed a fair week 23. The theatre will close after this week. The entire interior will be redecorated, and a number of improvements, both in front and on the stage, will be made.

Cronheim's Theatre will open week of 25 with Rose Hill's Burlesque Troupe and Rice and Barton. Wright Huntington with "Two Chums" closed a fair week 24. Archie Morrison, of this house, is in charge of the theatrical cash box at Cronheim's Coney Island Casino. Fred Bryant is also at that place..... Hattle Clark, the bot with "Jim the Penman," No. 1, has been engaged by Manager Cronheim to appear as Galatea in a new mechanical illusion controlled by John Henbsch at the Casino during the Summer. Miss Clark Joins Effle Ellsler next season.......One of the interesting sights to meet with here is a colt belonging to Herr Brockmann, foaled at Newark, N. J. The little animal is twenty inches square......"Roxey" drew a fair house at Jacobs' Theatre 25. The author, H. H. Winslow, and many professionals were present. The stage arrangements and mechanical effects, under the supervision of Stage Carpenter Mohn, were brilliant. The new light invented by John Clark was a success. It was first used at Asbury Park 22. The apparatus weighs but sixteen pounds, and promises to become popular with managers. A special exhibition was given 20 to a number of invited professionals and your correspondent. The original cast of "Roxy" was: Roxy, Ada Meirose; Hy Hazlitt, Mountloy Walker; Harrison Swift, E. L. Snader; Jim Rich, Lawrence Eddinger; Gawge Augustus Junniper, G. A. Beane Jr.; Squire Hazlitt, Gas Frankel; Helen Garrison, Anna Mortland; Aunt A

Newark .- All the regular places of amusement Newark.—All the regular places of amusement are now closed. Waldmann's being the last, June 28.....Heywood's Alhambra is being pushed to completion during the day and performances are given nightly. Emilie Pease is the attraction this week.....W. T. Stephens is preparing scenery and props for his new pleoes in the Fall.....Louis Baer, leader of the Howard orchestra in Boston, is in town. He will play the antoinophone with Gilmore at Manhattan this Summer.....Tommy Hindley, leader of Waldmann's orchestra, will sail for England 30.....The Dore Bros.' New York Concert Co. at Library Hall 25 had an excellent audience.

Brantford.—Owing to the strong outdoor attraction of the firemen and the extreme warm weather, Merritt & Stanley's Minstrels did a poor business June 19, 20. After the curtain went down evening of 20 they disbanded, F. T. Merritt, the manager, not having sufficient funds left to pay the hotel fill and get to the next stand. All the baggage and properties were attached by the sherrif for ooard and printing, but owing to the kindness of the law lifm of Hardy, Wilkes & Jones, who interested themselves in the company's behalf, the members were allowed to have their private belongings, and most of them were able to leave for Petroit 23. They all claim that F. T. Merritt misrepresented the condition of his finances, and that he had hardly sufficient capital to bring them this far. The company had only been out four days.

Montreal.—Al the Tacatre Royal, P. F. Bake F.

Montreal...At the Theatre Royal, P. F. Bak r had good houses June 18 and week. Due 25, Nelson's Specialty Co.....The Academy is closed Iop the season.

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence.-Although the heated term is upon us and the exodus to the Summer resorts has commenced in earnest, the several places of amuse-ment were generally well patronized the past week. At Keith's Gaiety Opera House business was satisfactory, and the splendid attractions offered certainly merited the generous support accorded. J. J. Sullivan in "Muldoon the Solid Man," and a capital variety bill at the Westminster Musee drew well. At the Sans Souci Garden, Edmund Collier well. At the Sans Souci Garden, Edmund Collier closed a week's engagement, June 23, to a very light attendance. Business at this resort so far this season compares unfavorably with that of previous seasons, which may be attributed mainly to very warm weather and strong counter attractions. Manager White has some excellent companies booked, and is confident that the season will prove profitable in the end.

KEITH'S GAIETY OPERA HOUSE.—Week of 25, the Gaiety Opera Co. in "Fatinitza." The specialty people are: The Viennese Lady Fencers, the Four Tourists, Falke and Semons, the Ventinis, Whippler Twins, Jennie Pickert, Julia Kelly, Isaby Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cohan.

WESTMINSTER MUSEE.—Stanley Macy's "Kindergarten" began a week's stay 25. The cast includes Katle Hart, Geo. S. Bruening and Laura Dinsmore. Week of July 2, "Aladdin." The Summer season closes July 7.

Westerly.—Woodson & Williams' Minstrels, booked at Birven's Opera House June 26, canceled.
...James A. Gould, leader, left here 19 for Boston, where he will fill a Summer's engagement at a resort near that city....T. W. Lamphear will resign as manager of Armory Hall July 1.

NEBRASKA.

Hastings .- The circus season will open with randence watched "McKeona's Finitation" as portrayed by Barry & Fay's Co.14. Gilmore's Band gave two performances here is. Fully 3,000 people attended the open air concert at the Fair Grounds in the afternoon, and the Opera House was packed to the doors at advanced prices in the evening. The Opera House will not close at all this Summer, as Manager Taggart has a number of attractions booked. The regular season will open Oct. 1.

Prement. at Turner Hall, June 18, excessive.

Premont.—At Turner Hall, June 15. excessive heat limited the attendance of Royce & Lansing's entrainment. Coming events cast no shedows......Sells Bros.' Circus 27.

Nebraska City.—The season closed at the Opera House with "The Two Extremes" June 15. Howe's London Circus is billed for 28, 29.

ILLINOIS.

Chicago.-Managers expected the liveliest sort of trade the past week from the great number of transients in the city but hot weather and political parades greatly lessened the at endance. Two play houses, however, did a rushing business— Hooley's and the Chicago Opera House. The former had all the people it could conveniently former had all the people it could conveniently take care of, while Manager Henderson had rather more than his share. The punsters in "The Corsair" Co. interpolated political gags suitable for the occasion, and made great hits accordingly. The same was true also of "The Crystal Slipper," Grand Opera House.—"The Paymaster" won encomiums from a fair attendance. The play is one of the best that has been seen here for a long time, its realistic scenes are a strong feature. Siecie Mackaye's new slay, "A Noble Rogue," will be played for the first time June 30.

HAYMARKET.—The Mexican Eighth Regiment Band gave a fine programme, but the number of listeners was rather limited. High temperature and the great excitement occasioned by the visting politicians were the cause. The band stays another week.

WAVERLY—Bertie Damon, in "Caste," took the blace of the Duniap Opera Co., and gave an acceptible performance. She failed to draw very well, too high salary list and meagre attendance are given as the cause of the sudden departure of the opera company. "My Geraldine" 25, McVicker's THEATRE.—Annie Pixley has always been a great favorite in this city, but somehow she lidn't attract the crowds she has in the past. "The 'avaller' began 25.

Quincy .- The Opera House building was sold spent June 17 in this city.

Pullman.—At the Arch Street Theatre, the Webster-Brady Co. in "She" appeared June 18 to a fair audience, the extreme heat being unfavorable to a large attendance. On 27 "Dombey & Son" is to be given by local amafeurs.

Rockford.—R. L. Downing had a splendid audience June 20. There are no further bookings for June.

CONNECTICUT.

Bridgeport .- At Wagner's Garden, William Paul's Dramatic Co. drew light houses last week. This week, a specialty company under the man-

This week, a specialty company under the management of A. J. Faust. The roster: Ward and Lynch, Adams, Casey and Howard, Larry and Lizzie Smith, Murphy and Wells, Louise and Kate Montrose, James McAvoy, John Frees.

OZONE.—Wm. Paul was quite frees.

All: Henriques, advance of "Rags" last season, is here publishing the Park programme in connection with A. F. Wands cadvance of the Drawing Room Museen.

Nevada Ned and Manager Evans made it pleasant for meat the Indian village 22. The new play, "The King of Gold," as outlined to me, seems to possess long felt want qualities, and their time is almost filled. They do not start until Nov. 7.

Manager Beiknap has invited the dramavic correspondents to meet a shore dinner without gloves 26.

The Concordias leave for Baltimore 29, to participate in the National Saengerfest, but will be back in time for the big celebration July 3, 4.

Belknap and Bowen are building a big skating kink at Seaside Park.

Prof. Fred Sibell, representing J. M. Hill's Battle of Gettysburg, was here June 22, arranging excursion rates by steamer Rosedale.

John L. Sullivan its the guest of Frank Moran during his brief stay here.

Hartford.—Allyn Hall is closed for the Sum mer. The managers concluded to suspend perform ances, as small audiences and hot weather are against them.....On June 27, the J. B. Doris & John L. Sullivan Circus will show here. E. H. Davis of this show was in town 19.

Waterbury.—The houses are closed and news is scarce. E. H. Davis, contract agent; Col. John B. Foster, courier; F. M. Welsh, railroad contractor; J. S. Eberley, boss bill poster, with four assistants, and Class. Mayer, all of the Doris & Sullivan Show, were in town June 21. They are billed for 25.

MINNESOTA.

New York.

Konl. & Middleton's Dime Museum could give me no dates for week of 25. Business is fair.

Notes.—Manager and Mrs. L. N. Scott are in the East......Selis Bros. played to tents flied with sweltering humanity 18.....The Grand Opera House is closed.

Minner polls.—The Grand Opera House is dark. The only entertainments last week were the graduating exercises of the Northwestern Conservatory of Music June 1s, and Daisy Lovering's benefit 2f. The latter was well attended, and was a fitting testimonial to a very sprightly little activations. Profile's Theatre.—Frank Deshon's Start Opera Co. are drawing good houses. Last week they sang "The Mikado." Bobert Macaire" is announced for week of 25.

management of Frederic Bock 30, with the spectacular drama, "Faust." Edwin Barber and Neil Scully have been engaged for the stock.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Only two new people 25: Charles and May Morrell. Remaining: John and Mamie Kline, Gallagher and Revnolds, Ada Devere, Gertle Holden, Allie Alden and James Wheeler. Business is good.

ittended. Es.—Manager Sterling, of the People's Thea NOTES.—Manager Sterling of the People's Theatre, is nothing if not a "rustler." The Start Opera Co.'s engagement relieves him of some of the care incident to managing a stock, and so Mr. Sterling has announced the "People's Theatre Sunday excursions" to Minnetonka and return. Prospects of big attendance, and consequent howling in the regular Monday conference of orthodox ministers.

The People's was occupied by the Travelers' Protective Association convention last week.

Duluth .- The Grand Opera House will be dark

Duluth.—The Grand Opera House will be dark for the week, as there is no booking. Mrs. Henry Nichols and pupils gave a little operetta, "Snow White, or the Seven Dwarfs." June 19, 20. All the seats are sold for the night of 19. McIntyre & Heath's Minstrels had poor business 13-14. "The Iwo Johns" had a fair house 15, and a small one 16...... This is the last week of the Duluth Theatre under the management of W. H. Jackson. The business has been falling off lately, and the owners have put the rent up $75 more a month. Mr. Jackson says he will not pay that amount, but will go over to West Superior, Wis., about four miles from here, where he can get a small house at a very low rent. There are two or three parties after the house. Some say that Joe Lang from Detroit, Mich., is one of the three. The house can be made to pay by keeping a good company and conducting the front of the house in the right way. Manager Jackson has had the place for over three years and made some money in that time, but then times were better than now. Company for week of 8-23: Jessie Adams, Jas. F. Murray, Dan Connors, Lester Howard, Rosaiia Gravella, Elia Jackson and Prof. Theo, Bruders, assisted by Mile. La Motte.... sells Bros. Circus was here afternoon and night of 14. The tent was only about half full at each performance. There would have been a larger crowd only for Barnum's coming, and they wast to see his cfreus as they have seen Sells' before, and as two dollars in hard to get to take in both shows, Barnum will do the best business. The admission of one dollar and fifty cents for a reserved seat, with twenty-five cents for the concert, is too steep.

During May, 1852, G. V. Brooke acted in a differ-ent version of "The Corsican Brothers" at the Astor Place Opera House. It was announced as being the original version of the same play, and Mr. Brooke was announced as the original representa tive of the twin brothers. This drew forth the fol-lowing characteristic letter from Mr. Hamblin:

tive of the twin brothers. This drew forth the following characteristic letter from Mr. Hamblin:

Especial. Notice.—Some two months or more ago, the subscriber received from London a printed copy of a drama entitled. The Corsican Brothers' in which Mr. Charles Kean was announced as the original representative of the Twin Brothers. He immediately placed it in the hands of his stage manager, see machinist, to call together a continuer, etc., and to prepare the drama for representation at the earliest possible date, and to incur any expense for extra aid off necessary), rather than delay, as he was determined, if possible, to be the first in the field to introduce this great drama in the metropolis of the United States. The elaborate painting necessary for the proper production of it occupied some three weeks. It was then presented to the public. As to how it was done he leaves to the opinions of the press, universally expressed, and to the 70 or solder of the control o have believed in him and so nobly supported him for five and twenty years. T. 8 HAMLIN.

The prices of admission to the Bowery were: Boxes, 25 cents; seats in the orchestra boxes, 50 cents; pit, 12½ cents. H. E. Stevens was stage manager, and the time for opening the doors and commencing were 7 and 7.30 o'clock.

July 7, 1862, Loia Montez published a card in the newspapers of the day to the effect that the first real benefit given to her since she reached the United States was to take place at this theatre July 8, as all those so called benefits during herengagement, and while performing at the theatres in New York, Philadelphia and Washington under the control of E. A. Marshall, were humbugs, and she had received no more benefit from them than for any other night of her performances. July 26 Prof. Macallister, the wizard, commenced an engagement.

Prof. Macailister, the wizard, commenced an engagement.
Matida Heron was the attraction the opening night of the season, Aug. 23, 1852. She appeared as Lady Macbeth to the Macbeth of Edward Eddy, She afterwards played Juliet, Pauline, Ophelia Mrs. Haller, etc. She was engaged as the leading lady, and remained here until January, 1853. Maggie Mitchell appeared here several times during the season, playing children's parts.

The first annual benefit of the American Dramatic Fund took place Dec. 15, when "Macbeth" was acted as follows: Macbeth. Thos. Hamblin: Banquo, H. Stephens; Macduff. Edward Eddy: Lady Macbeth, Miss Weymss (Mrs. Duffleid). Tight rope by Leon Javelli, dances by Caroline and Adelaide Rousset, Miss Rulan and Mons. Corpet, Mic. Frances and Mons. Wiethoff, Frances, Henry, and Mons. Corby. "Perfection" and "Lola Monte." Were also acted.

Thomas S. Hamblin died at his residence, 41 were also acted.
Thomas S. Hamblin died at his residence, 416
Broome Street, this city, on Saturday evening, Jan.
8, 1853, aged fifty-three. The theatre was closed until Jan. 14. Mr. H. was noted for his correct business habits, promptitude and open heartedness.
The calls of the needy never passed him unheard or unheeded. During his managerial career he gave the total nightly receipts of his theatre over 160 times for the benefit of charities. His faults were solely those of his head, not of his heart. To the Bowery Theatre he devoted his best energies, and, perhaps, as far as the introduction of a rare variety of entertalnments is concerned, he effected more than any man in America. A singular fatality seemed, however, to pursue him through life; that was the loss of his theatres by fire no fewer than four times. But he was a man of extraordinary abilities and indomitable perseverance. He did not make those accidents an excuse for the nonpayment of a single obligation which he had incurred. As an actor he possessed the valuable accessories of a fine person, a good voice and careful education. Probably a great share of the sense of the heroic which a peculiar class of his admirers felt for Mr. Hamblin resulted from the fact of his going into the office of The New York Heraid, a few years prior to his death, and giving James Gordon Bennett a most unmerciful cowhiding by way of reply to certain attacks made through that paper.
I claim for Thomas Hamblin that he did more for the elevation of the drama in this country than any man of his time. As an actor he had forgotreply to certain attacks made through that paper. I claim for Thomas Hamblin that he did more for the elevation of the drama in this country than any man of his time. As an actor he had forgotten more than most actors knew, and still remembered enough to teach some of the best of them. In person he was tall and, commanding, above ordinary men in stature, but so admirably proportioned as in a measure to conceal his almost towering height. Deep set eyes, black as jet, were surmounted by a towering forehead, crowned by clusters of curling dark hair in such rich profusion as is seltom seen, except in some of the models which have been handed down to us from remote antiquity. To see him dressed for Brutus, Coriolanus or Virginius was a study for a painter. There was all the noble Roman in his bearing grace in every action and a stamp the gods themselves might have set there, that marked him as no common man. No man better knew than he the difficulties, trials and struggles of his profession and no man more sincered sympathized with them. At his death he left eight heirs, each of whom received $10,000. His remains he on Ocean Hill, Greenwood.

Henry Edmund Stevens, the stage manager, died Henry Edmund Stevens, the stage manager, ded in this city Feb. 9, 1854, from injuries received while wrestling with William Hamilton at the foot of Grand street on the Sunday prior to his denies, Both of these gentlemen, in company with others, had been to Williamsburg to attend the housewarming of a new dwelling erreted or purchased by William H. Hamblin; and on their return some discussion arose between them about wrestling. Stevens boasting that Hamilton could not throw him. They wrestled for some little time on the boat, and immediately after landing they renewed the sport upon the sidewalk and Stevens, being thrown, fell in a sitting posture, with great violence struck the curissione, and immediately fell back insensible. He was carried into a neighboring saloon, laid upon a table, and medical aid summoned, when it was found that his neck was broken. The spinal cord being nearly severed, all the portions of the body below the neck were paralyzed and devoid of feeling. On the following morning he was carried to his residence, where he remained in the full possession of his senses until he died as above stated. Dr. Crane, one of the attending physicians, made a post-mortem examination, which fully established the above facts so far as his injuries were concerned.

He was a most thorough melodramatic actor. He made his American debut at the Chatham Theatre, as Judas Iscariot, in "The Destruction of Jerusalem." Notwithstanding he and Hamilton were the best of friends, it was believed at the time, and even now there are thousands who will think different, that the fall given him by Hamilton was done with the intent of injuring him, but it was purely accidental.

"ZIP" AND "ROMEO."

[TO MY STAUNCH PRIEND, W. T. STEPHENS.] BY WILLIAM DEVERE.

Friend Bill, as we sat with our feet in the air— One night in Frank Moran's cafe— Discussing the merits and demerits, too, Of the authors, the actors and play, You told me a story of "Auld Lang Syne," How "Romeo," "Zip" and yourself Had walked into Nashville one dark, cheerless day Before you could boast of much wealth.

You told me that "Zip" and old "Romeo," too, Were the dogs that you trained for the play Which you "tried on the dog"—and you failed, it is true:

Which you "tried on the way.

true;
But it is making you wealthy today.
You told me how dreary looked all of this world,
While mired in adversity's bog—
When you on the sea of relance were hurled,
With no friend on earth but your dog.

With no friend on earth but your dog.

I've thought it all over; I've sampled them all; I love friendship honest at d true, And (in my estimation) the dogs have the call, For they stuck through your troubles to you. Your fair weather friends at your trouble will wail. Say "they're sorry — they hope you'll pull through;"

through;"
But I'd sooner a wag of old "Romeo's" tail
Than all of their friendship for you.

Friend Bill, does it ever occur to you now,
That "Zip" and old "Romeo," too,
Who shared all your troubles, your trials and cares
Are dead and unnot ced by you?
While some of your flattering, false hearted friends
With your praise the whole world set agog.
Who might perhaps think that I wish to offend
When I tell them, I honor the dog.

SOME NEW PRODUCTIONS.

Harry A. Du Souchet's New Play, "Dollars and Hearts," at the Windsor.

The new piece at the Windsor Theatre, this city, this week, "Dollars and Hearts," is by Harry A. Du Souchet, a telegraph operator, and is his maiden effort. This is its first presentation on any maiden effort. This is its first presentation on any stage. On another page we tell of its reception. Below we present the story: Obediah Ferris, an old Pike County farmer and 'squire, and his rheumatic and ill tempered wife have taken two young men—George Clarke, a civil engineer, a'd Jean Decharme, a young French artist—to board during the Summer months. Owing to Mrs. Ferris' rheumatism, she is unable to properly perform her added household duties, and they have sent to the city for a new female cook, whose arrival is momentarily expected. Lum Pilgreen, a susceptible country boy, a mondescript of a rough practical joke bent of mind, knowing this, haunts the railway station, anticipating her arrival. About this time Lucy Ferris, the Squire'ss niece, who has just graduated from school, and whom the Squire has never seen, determines upon paying an unannouncid visit to her uncle and aunt. She is met at the depot by Lum, who, hearing her inquire the direction to Ferris', asks her if she is the "new servant gal." She meets the prospective joke half way, replies that she is, and enters the Ferris household in the guise of Kittle O'Mara, an Irish servant girl, and concocts a scheme with her, in which she (Mollie Miller) is to assume to be the niece. This complication furnishes the basis for the underplot. Before leaving the city the two young men had invested mildly in lottery tickets. While they are comparing their tickets with the drawing list it develops that the old Squire had traded a sack of potates for a fraction of a ticket nearly three months before. An accidentally noticed newspaper article and a comparison with a memorandum made by the Squire reveals the fact that the ticket has drawn the capital prize. A search for the supposedly worthless ticket results in the confession of the Squire's wife that she, being unable to find a sufficiently large piece of paper for the purpose, had written her favorite formula for a sore throat upon the back of the liteket, and given it to an itinerant circuit riding preache stage. On another page we tell of its reception

"Said Pasha."

Richard Stahl's new spectacular opera, "Said Pasha," was originally sung at the Tivoli Theatre, San Francisco, June 18. The scene of the first act is at Constantinople and the second at Bokhara. is at Constantinopie and the second at Bokhara. The story is briefly as follows: Said Pasha, a Turkish diplomat, is preparing for a pleasure trip around the world. Serena, als daughter, is anxious to accompany him, cecause she does not want to be parted from her lover. Hassen Bey, who is the Pasha's first officer. Said Pasha objects to this, and Serena is about to give up in despair when Hadad (a Greek by birth, a sailor by occupation, a liar by profession and a tramp by force of circumstances) offers his assistance, providing he and his companion, Nockey, are well paid for their undertaking. Serena and Hassen Bey promise to do anything for Hadad, and he helps her to a disgoise as a sailor boy. Arrival of Terano, a young Mexican, who is on his way around the world in search of an ideal wife whom he had a en in his dream. Said Pasha tries to induce Terano to marry one of his many wives, but Terano, who offers a large prize for his ideal wife, does not consent. Hadad overhears everything. He at once goes to Terano and tells him that he knows where to find such a wife, and shows his willingness to accompany him provided he receives half of the money in advance. Terano agrees. Hadad then goes to Said Pasha and succeeds in getting money out of him, also, by promising to find that ideal wife for him. Everything is in readiness to proceed to the Village of Bokhara, India, that being the home of the ideal wife, and where Said Pasha's festivities in honor of Terano tase place, and introduces a grand Mexican ballet. Serena is almost discovered by her father in her disguise, and has to undergo many trials, but Hadad The story is briefly as follows: Said Pasha, a Turkish mexican ballet, serena is almost discovered by her father in her disguise, and has to undergo many trials, but Hadad helps her through, and she succeeds in getting away. The second act opens in a very brilliant scene, it being a festival in India, the day on which Alit, the ideal queen of the village, reigns. Upon the arrival of the Turkish party Terano at once fails in love with Alit, when come the trials and tributions. the arrival of the Turkish party Terano at once falls in love with Alti, when come the trials and tribulations of Said Pasha and Bala-Sojah, Alti's stepmother. Haddad asks for his reward, but does not get anything, and is forced to give back the money he has already received from Terano. Said Pasha discovers his daughter, Hassen Bey is pardoned, Akey Bars has his revenge on Terano and Said Pasha and all return to Constantinople. In this act i great number of Indian features are introduced, among them an Indian ballet.

D'Ennery's "Chevalier de la Moliere," under the tille of "The Cavalier," is being done at McVick-er's Theatre, Chicago, III., this week. Henry Lee and Geo. H. Jessop have made the adaptation. The first performance was given June 25, and our telegram from Chicago tells of its reception. The story is from Chicago tells of its reception. The story is romantic, and deals with the adventures of Chevalier de la Molière, a light he arted scamp who flourished during the regency in France. The first act shows the forest at Rambonillet. The regent and his party are here enjoying the hunt. During the discussion among the courtlers of the regent of the hero and his recent banishment from the court for his duelling propensities he appears, much to their surprise, and in the witty dialogue that follows we learn that, finding it impossible to live away from the gay court of Versailles, he has come back to implore forgiveness of the regent. They leave him. His reflections as to the ways and means of securing forgiveness are interrupted by the arrival of Eglantine, a charming ingenue, by whom he is at once fascinated. Appreciating the weakness of the regent for pretty women he good naturedly suggests into prominence as has this handsome young tragedian. Robert L. Downing, who is starring under the management of Joseph H. Mack. The envisible reputation gained by him is certainly the result of studious endeavor and true artistic merit. Mr. Downing was born in Washington. D. C., Oct. 28, 1857. At a very early age he evinced a decided liking for the Thespian art, and at eighteen he became a member of the stock company at Ford's Theatre, Baltimore. His parents were averse to his adopting the stage as a profession, but, when they observed how sirongly the twig was bent, very sensibly allowed their son to follow his inclination. The first star Mr. Dewning played with was Charles Fechter. The young actor's talent made him a valuable acquisition to the company. After a prosinto prominence as has this handsome young trage to her that when presently, as chatelain of the forest, she shall present the hoof of, the stag to his royal highness, she ask forgiveness for him, and he leaves the scene with her to coach her in a speech he tells her she must make to the regent. De Launcey, the Governor of the Bastie, who entertains a cordial harred for la Moliere, cr a ted by the knowledge that previous to his marriage with Mme. De Launcy, she had entertained a strong affection for our hero, and who for some time has been longing for one of la Moliere's many indiscretions to place him in his power, plots with Count d'Clermont to have la Moliere sent to the Bastie. Glantin makes her presentation; the regent is struck with her ingenuous innocence and beauty, and finally pardons la Moliere, telling him, however, that on his next offence he will certainly be sent to the dreaded dungeon. Clermont, notwithstanding this, succeeds in provoking la Moliere to fight, be Launcy in the meantime having gone to inform the regent, who arrives upon the scene in time to discover la Moliere, whose pardon he revokes. During the act the Baron de Barbiniere appears. He has come from the province of Poitou to seek his fellow countryman, Chevalier de la Moliere, under whose tutelage he wishes to place himself, as he desires to attain a high position at the court of Versailes. The act closes with the departure of la Moliere for the Bastile. Louise d'Souvil the heroine, to save her father from disgrace and ruin, is forced into a marriage with Count de Clermont, Jilting her former lover. Some years before an old friend of la Moliere's, who had been mixed up in the piot for the restoration of the Stuarts, had been sent to the Bastile. During his seven years' incarceration he had dug a subterranean passage into the adjoining house in Rue St. Antoine, and scarcely two hours before he had decided to help himself to liberty the doors of the Bastile, he imparts to him he secret existence of the passage under the deepest cell in the Bastile, known as Lebertandiere. support to Edwin Booth, and afterward p.ayed in that capacity with Charlotte Cushman, Dion Boucicault, Joseph Jefferson and other stars. In 18st he was engaged as leading support to Mary Anderson, playing Romeo, Ingomar, Fazio, Claude Melnotte, Sir Thomas Clifford, etc. He made his New York debut with Miss Anderson as Claude Melnotte, at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, and remained with her until she left to fulfill her engagement in England. It was Miss Anderson's desire that he should accompany her to Europe, and she offered him every inducement to do so, but he had previously received a very flattering proposal from Joseph Jefferson, and he considered it more to his interest to accept Mr. Jefferson's offer. With that actor he remained two years. During his engagement support to Edwin Booth, and afterward played in | had taken a friendly interest in the young actor

The history of the American stage records few stances where an actor has so suddenly sprung tour through the South, he was engaged as leading been carefully watched by Joseph H. Mack, who had taken a friendly interest in the young actor, and who, after Mr. McCullough's death, conceived the idea of bringing Mr. Downing out as Spartscus, in an elaborate production of "The Gladiator." Mr. Downing readily signed a contract to play under his management for five years, or longer if desired. Mr. Downing's engagements in this city, at the Star and Niblo's, were among the notable successes of last season. The arrangement thus entered into has proved a very friendly alliance, as well as a most profitable one. It is the intention of Manager Mack to have Mr. Downing appear in productions of "Othello," "Ingomar," "Julius Casar" and "St, Marc," the latter of which has been purchased from the E. L. Davenport estate. Its revival is likely to prove one of next season's most interesting events.

FOREIGN SHOW NEWS.

AMY SHERWIN'S English Opera Co. opened a four months' season at Her Majesty's Opera, Melbourne, Aus., with "Lucia di Lammermoor." A large and brilliant audience, including the Lieutenant Governor and Lady Lock, was present, and the prima donna had an enthusiastic reception. Alfred Wilkie, Avon D. Saxon and Arthur Hubbard the American singers who were engaged from the United States, and who had arrived two days before, created a very favorable impression.

Wagners's postnumous opera, "Die Feen" (The Fairies), has been produced at Munich during the present week. It is a comic opera, and was written in Iss3, when Wagner was the chorus master of a small theatre in Bavaria. It has never been performed or published, and after Wagner's death the score was sold to the Munich Opera House, with the stipulation that the work should not be given elsewhere.

NEW YORK CITY.

Review of the Week .- Theatre going be came a task during the atter nights of the week ended June 23, and there was a marked failing off in the attendance at the few open houses.....The warm weather bastened the close of Niblo's Gar-DEN'S season, and the week stand of the Leonzo Bros., in "Brother Against Brother," finished 23 to poor receipts. They had contemplated a fortnight's stay, and another combination (Harry Web-ber's, we believe) had been booked to follow them. All were canceled by Manager Gilmore, who was

RICHARD MANSPIELD continues "A Parisian Romance" at the Madison Square Theatre this week, the last of his engagement there. Next week Effic Elister will play for the first time in America "The Keepsake," Clinton Stuart's adaptation of "Antoinette Rigand."

A JURY in the City Court, June 21, awarded Theodora de Gillert, premiere danseuse, a verdict for $706, unpaid wages, against Poole & Gilmore of Niblo's Garden. The dancer's story was that she contracted with Poole & Gilmore to star in "The Seven Raveus," at a salary of $125 a week in the city and $150 a week outside, with expenses. Her engagement began Aug. 18, 1884. She claimed she carried out her part of the contract until Jan. 17, 1885, but was not paid from Dec. 8, 1884, to that date. She sued for $766. The defense was that U.A. Mendum, who had nothing to do with Poole & Gilmore took the company on the road. The jury gave the dancer the full amount.

KOSTRIA BIAL'S CONCKER HALL.—The programme for the week commencing June 25 enlists the following vandeville specialties: The Three Eddys, Fred W. Millis, Defour and Debrimont, Revillo, Mile. PAULISE HALL returns to the Casino Sept. 17.
This is official.

THE MARGART MATHER suit against J. M. Hill for an accounting and dissolution of a claimed parthership was commenced June 22 in the Supreme Court, Judge Ingraham presiding. Miss Mather was the first witness. She testified that in the first year of her engagement with Mr. Hill saked what she intended doing with it. She replied she would make him a present, and together they went to a Jewelry store near Tiffany's, where she bought him a diamond collar button and a pair of diamond culf buttons. The bill was paid by Mr. Hill from her money, which he held, and the remainder she never received. While traveling through the country, meeting everywhere with success, she received nothing from Mr. Hill but her expenses. He said he was sinking the receipts in advertising, costumes, etc. In the first year of this tour Mr. Hill informed her she had cleared $12,000, and suggested that he invest it for her in real estate, to which she assented. Later on he toid her he had invested 10,000 for her in the Columbia Theatre in Chicago, and a short time afterwardhe said it was a great failure. Mr. Hill told her not to worry about her loss, as he would make it up to her. The next year he informed her she had made $10,000 more. After her marriage to Mr. Haberkorn a new contract was made, and in the seasons of 1886 and 1887 applied by Mr. Hill at the time. He wished to use this money, he said, and offered to pay her interest on it, but she told him she needed money, as she was followed by Eindl Haberkorn none the original vouclers for the receipts of the strand during most of the morning session. She was followed by Eindl Haberkorn none the original vouclers for the receipts of the business, but said they had been destroyed, and that was all she ever got of the $17,000. The trial was continued 25, Miss Mather being on the stand during most of the morning session. She was followed by Eindle Abender of the French of the command of the pain ais is official. BYFFALO BILL'S SHOW at Erastina, S. I., is doing a most satisfactory business. The well managed railroad and steamboat excursions from the nearby cities add thousands to the patrons of this unique and successful enterprise. At the conclusion of the season here Budalo Bill proposes to conduct a party of English noblemen and men in political life, together with several distinguished Americans, on a pleasure excursion across the plains. The party will start from his ranch at North Flatte. Neb., and travel in wagons and on horses, camping out at night. Since Major North's death Col. Cody has been elected the white chief of the Pawnees, and to this tribe he will first pay a visit. Thence he will take his party to New Mexico and Arizona, stopping at military posts and forts in words. He will come out through Lower California. The start will be made early in the Fall, the trip consuming several weeks. This novel trip should be enjoyable under such leadership.

WINDSOR THEATRE.—This is the last week of the regular season here. Monday night, June 25, a good sized house saw the first performance on any stage of "Dollars and Hearts," a three act farcical comedy by Harry A. Du Souchet, a telegrapher of this city. On another page we give a sketch of the plot. The cast, by a specially engaged company, was as follows: Obediah Ferris. George Woodward; George Clarke, J. J. Farrell: Dean Decharme, Albert Bruening; Columbus Pilgreen, Walter Perkins; Rev. Leonidas Gringle, Edward Warren; John Ferris, Field Jerome; Lucy Ferris, Lillian Brown; Mollie Miller, Lilly Ramsden: Mrs. Mary Jane Ferris, Elizabeth Andrews. Edward Warren, George Woodward, Mrs. Andrews. Walter Perkins and Lillian Brown ther first New York appearance in some years, we believe) did the best work, Mr. Warren making the only approach to a hit. The farce is constructed on familiar lines, and is most to be valued for the promise it reveals, coming from a a novice at play writing. The climaxes were genuinely funny, and some of the dialogue was brisk. With judictious revision the piece may become available for the purpose of a carefully balanced comedy company. Mr. Du Souchet's friends were out in force, and gave him a curtain call. Monday night, July 2, Treasurer Theo, Myers and Assistant Treasurer D. J. Shelley will benefit. There will be several other testimonial entertainments during next week at this house.

The work of altering the Star Theatre, in accordance with the plans filed in the Building Department over a week ago, has already begun. The seats of the orchestra and balcony have been removed, and the carpenters will begin tearing up the floor at once. The work will be pushed as rapidly as possible, and when completed the Star Will be one of the prettiest and most comfortable theatres in New York.

Buffalo.—At the Court Street, P. F. Baker plays "Chris and Lena" this week, being the farewell productions of this piece. "Little Nugget" closed June 23, having enjoyed good patronage.

BUNKEL'S MUSEUM.—The Louise Arnot Co. terminated their successful engagement of four weeks, and closed this house 23.

GRAND OFERA HOUSE.—Next season this house will be known as the Corinne Lyceum, with H. R. Jacobs and Jennie Kimbail as the managers. The alterations and improvements which Mr. Jacobs intends to make are so important and extensive that when they are finished the Corinne Lyceum will be an entirely new building and one of the handsomest theatres in this part of the country. The house is to be entirely reseated with the latest designs of plush uphoistered sofa chairs, and all the floors covered with velvet and Brussels carpets. The foyer is to be finished with polished cherry and rich draperies, after a design turnished by Mr. Jacobs himself. The effect will be very striking and artistic. The plans for the new Corinne Lyceum were drawn by a New York architect, Mr. McElfatrick, who will personally superintend the entire work. The seating capacity of the house will be 2,000. The season will open late in August.

Norgs.—Thomas R. Perry, manager of Mr. Baker, informs me that the season has been more successful than any previous season. Mr. Baker sails for Europe after his engagement here. His time is filled to May, 1889, with "The Emigrant," opening in Pittsburg in September....... Charles F. Killhoffer of Mrs. Potter's Co. returned to the city 21 for the Summer...... Nella Brown-Pond read "Onna-inda" at the Chapter House 22...... Jumbo, giant horse, is on exhibition in a store on Seneca Street........... Haverly's Minstreis appear at the Academy of Music July 16.

Troy.—At the Griswold Opera House, the season closed June 23. The Wilbur Opera Co. was the attraction, and did a fair business, despite intense heat. The next season opens Aug. 13, with Tony Pastor's Co. Jacobs & Proctor's resident manager, James A. Barnes, will remain in the city during the vacation, writing a continuation of "Casper, the Yodler," for C. T. Ellis. It is probable that he will be manager again next season. During the recess a number of improvements will be made fore and aft the footlights, under the direction of Treasurer Harry Wheeler. When it is considered that very recently electric lights and automatic water throwers, iron doors, etc., have been added to the building, it will be seen that $4,000 more in improvements will make the Griswold the peer of most theatres in this part of the country.

TROY THEATRE.—Manager Ford was in bad luck last week. He had negotiated for the May Adams Co. He took their paper from the express office, telegraphed railroad fares to them from New York, and was astonished just before S. P. M. 18 to see a little party of ten show up, without baggage or music. A plain variety bill was given, which, after the extravagant advertising, queered "the business of the entire week. John B. Wills proposed to skip, but was forced to remain and play, although on 23 both Wills and Alfred P. Beaven were arrested for attempting to beat a hotel out of a week's board for themselves and wives. The season closed 25, but a supplementary season is possible.

George Murray, the well known press agent, last season of Gilmore's enterprises, arrived in this city 21.... The Opera Club, a new social organization, has taken quarters in the Grand Opera House Building. Manager T. F. Kelly is its president, and assistant managers Kahnweiler, of the National, and W. S. Moore, of the Grand are on the membership roll.

Grand Opera House.—The second month of the season of the American Opera Co. began 25, undermost flattering auspices. 'The Boilemian Giri' is the bill for the entire week. Whilsim Castle and Alonzo Stoddard were in their original roles. The hous's was well niled, and the audience was warmly appreciative.

Foreparation's Casino.—"Fra Diavolo" gave place appreciative.

FOREPAUGH'S CASINO.—"Fra Diavolo" gave place to "Fatinitza." The calivas roof, with its mov able walls, makes the Casino a delightfully cool resort on hot nights, and consequently the house was well filled. Tellula Evans, as Princess Lydia, added another Philadelphia success to her list, and Helen Harrington's voice was pronounced the best heard here. "Fatinitza" was strongly cast through out, superbly staged, and got plent of applause. CONTINENTAL THEATRE.—The Wilbur Opera Co. inasgurated the season of Summer opera at this house 25. The organization did very well at the Continental during the Winter season, and the performance on the opening night indicated a repetition of the former success. "The Merry War" was the bill, and the opera went well.

Pittsburg.—The Insect Show at the Grand Opera House has closed. It was not a financial success. The regular season opens Sept. 3.

BIJOU THEATRE.—Gilmore's Band will give two concerts June 30. The season opens Aug. 20.

WILLIAMS' ACABEMY OF MUSIC is closed. The season opens Aug. 20.

HARRIS' THEATRE.—'The Gold King.'' with Horace Vinton in the lead, is the attraction this week. Marlande Clarke in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" last week made a favorable impression to fair patronage. Next week, John W. Ransome in "Across the Atlantic.''

Exposition Park.—Pawnee Bill's Wild West will exhibit all the week.

Notes.—The managers of "The Black Fiag," recently at Harris' Theatre, deserted the company, leaving the members with a few weeks' salaries unbald..... Manager Harry Williams and his son. Will, have returned from the East..... Munkacey's painting, "Christ on Calvary," now on exhibition at Grand Central Rink, is drawing good crowds.... B. W. Kleibecker was here last week making arrangements for Fawnee Bill's Wild West..... Howard Perd, press agent for Gilmore's Band, is in town...... Manager Gulick, of the Bijou, leaves next week for Newport to spend the remainder of the Summer...... Eugene Robinson's Floating Museum is heading up this way It is more than likely that Sheridan Corbyn will not come to the Bijou next season as press agent Manager E. D. Wilt, of the Grand, returned from New York 22. He did some booking for the Grand, and his entire season is now filled.

Kansas City -Decidedly the crowning mu sical event of the season was given June 19, 20, 21, by Gilmore's Band at the Exposition Building. Although th: rain freely pointed down every even-ing of the engagement, packed audiences witnessed each performance.

Although the rain freely pointed down every evening of the engagement, packed audiences witnessed each performance.

MISTE HALL AND GARDEN is now about the only place of amusement open, all the opera houses and legitimate theatres baving closed for the Summer. The Thomas Opera Co. are getting thoroughly initiated, and doing some the work, which is growing in favor with the public very rapidly. Last week they produced "Olivette" to large audiences.

KANSAS CITY MUSEUM, which is now the Eden Musee, has undergone a wonderful change since coming into the hands of the Eden Musee Co. The building has been remodeled and fitted up in elegabt style, giving it the appearance of a grand parlor, and instead of a stock and playing dramathey exhibit treaks and put on specialities. Since opening the attractions have been especially strong and the place conducted in the most genteel manner, drawing only the better class of patronage. If this policy is kept up it will soon be the only pleasure resort of the best class of our amusement seekers.

Colister M Theatre.—Arrivals 25: Bradford and Mack, Essie Clinton, Sig, Antonio Martinze, Grant and Williams, Murphy and Lenora, Lizzie Hardwick, Business is good.

Fournant Theatre.—Opening 25: Smith and Fuller, Clark and Williams, Martin and Gifford, T. F. Grant, Flynn and Walker, and the Stanfords. Remaining: Lestie and Collins, Maud Lewis, Thatcher and Drew, the Welches, Billy Haley, The past week was the banner week of the Season.

NOTES.—Manager Hudson is in the East booking.

The Fountain Theatre Band challenges any band or orchestra in Kansas City for $500... Ella Fey made quite a hit at the Coliseum last week.

The Eden Musee Co. have purchased the Museum in Denver. They now have a circuit including Kansas City, St. Joseph, Omaha and Denver.

St. Joseph.—At the Eden Musee, business continues good. In the Curio Hall this week: Baby Bunting, the two headed calf, the illuston of a living body without a head and groupings of wax agures. In the Bijou Theatre: Gorman Rawson, Winnie Johnston, Mabel Strating, Luigi Del 'Oro and Culhane and Emerson.

STANDARD THEATRE.—Crowded houses have been the rule the past week. The people: St. Vrain Children, Maggie Ray, Gorman and Donaldson, Albert Dashington, Ellis and Smith, George II. Fielding and the Williams, Frank and Nora.

Howe's Circus opened 20 for four days.

Boston .- Forepaugh is with us at last, and man agers have got to lock their doors, throw away their keys and wait until he gets out of here with a carload of good Puritanical Bostonese coin. The "circ" opened June 25 for a week on the old familiar grounds off Dartmouth Street and Huntington Avenue. It has been capitally advertised in every respect. A great week should be the result. The ustomary opening morning parade was given 25.

Amelie Rives sort of a thunder and lightning storm 23 knocked the "Last Days of Pompeil" out in just one round. That was to have been the initial performance of the new pyrotechnical spectacle, but the elements were dead against the show, and heaven itself did a little in the fireworks line that night. Evening of 25 everything will be brought around in shipshape order and the first performance given then. Only three performances weekly are given.—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The etitle affair is in charge of Harry McGlenen.

—BOSTON THEATRE.—Ullie Akerstrom winds up her season of popular prices with the close of the current week, and the house will be dark for the balance of the torrid term. ELK NOTE.

An enjoyable and pleasant social event occurred June 24, at the residence, in this city, of William L oyd Bowron, musical director of the Fourteet its street Theatre. The occasion was to celebrate the reception by the host of a magnificent elk's head recently presented to him by Jax. L. Ross, of Leadville, Col. The noble animal was shot by the donor on one of his hunting expeditions, and a finer specimen can nowhere be found. The head is an itea of form and proportion. From the end of the nose to the tip of the antier measures six feet one inch, and across from tip to tip is three feet eleven inches. The antiers are models in every particular, and, while there may be a few that measure more, there are none equally so perfect. This valuable specimen was the greater part of last year on exhibition at the Colorado Exposition, where it commanded general admiration. Many prominent members of the Order attended the unique gathering at Mr. Bowron's and participated in the royal good cheer, heartily joining in the 110 clock toast by E.R., J. J. Spies, of Lodge No. 1. Congratulations to the host upon the acquisition of such a splendid prize were cheerfully extended. It was felt that none more than he deserved so much honor. Among those present were some who could recall the fact that in 1867, at a somewhat similar social gathering by invitation of Prof. Bowron, the mitiatory step was made towards the formation of this joily, noble and benevolent association. Mr. Bowron is indeed, the veritable "Father of the Elks." He modestly enjoys the enviable distinction of ranking as Elk No. 1, of New York Lodge, No. 1. Although the first Esteemed Leading Knight, the has never aspired to office or honor, beyond that which is found in the practice of the principles of the Order. Plain, outspoken and unpretentions, he is one of the most popular and yet one of the most unassuming of Elks.

AMONG THE WHITE TENTS.

REPORTS of good business reach us from the Chas. Lee Show. Among the additions are a new 50ft. flat, a two and a four horse dray and a new ticket wagon. J. R. Tucker, agent of the show. writes: "The reports of your correspondents regarding the sales of THE CLIPPER against those of would-be rivals are getting to be almost monoto garding the sales of The Clipper against those of would-be rivals are getting to be almost monotonous in their sameness. But I would like to add my mite: When I first became a Clipper reader, some seven years ago, I found it almost impossible to procure a copy outside of the larger towns. Now there is hardly a village or hamlet L. rge enough to support a bookstore or 'news stand in the lost office' at which I cannot procure my dearly beloved Clipper within a day or two after publication. This goes to show, more than anything else, the story of your increased circulation and popularity." Charley Ewers, Wallace & Co.'s principal jockey rider, sustained severe injuries while riding June 9 by falling from his horse. His place has been taken by Win. O'Dale.

PROP. WILLIAMS, the aeronaut, fell from his balloon June 21 at Tolchester, Md., and struck Henry Scales, injuring him severely about the back. The professor escaped injury, but was picked up in a dazed condition. The balloon was held by hands. The men on one side let go, and the others, supposing that the order had been given, also let go, and the balloon immediately began to ascend. The professor grabbed the paractule rig, and was carried off the ground. When about at a height of forty-five feet the balloon struck a staging which had been erected. The force was so great that the paractule broke loose, and the professor began a rapid descent. He struck a guy rope, which partly broke his fall. He fell backwards, striking Mr. Scales. Both were picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to a hotel.

Notes from Bartine's Show.—George Minnviller, a musician, and Maud Bartine were married in Payne, 0., June 7 without the consent of the parents of the young lady. Everything has since been agreeably settled. The first blowdown occurred at Auburn, Ind., 13. On 17 the show Sundayed on the edge of Blue Lake, where all hands enjoyed the bashing. They report good business despite opposition and say the thost perambulates at regular intervals. George Sun is reported to have astonished all hands 17, by staying under water for two minutes by the watch.

Thos. L. Grenier Bros. 'Show has been splendid up to the present time. Eight weeks in Chicago, Ill., closed June 23, and the road tour commenced 25 at St. Charles, Ill. The show travels by rail, and the route is laid out through Illinois and Iowa for the next two weeks.

The Bords & Sullivan Circus opened its tour at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., June 23, to fairly good business at the afternoon show and a large crowd at night. John L. Sullivan acquitted himself creditably.

News of good business reaches us from the John F. Stowe & Co. Show. They are making three day stands through Ohio.

Prof. Charles Colby, aeronaut, met with a very painful accident at Mariborough Mass. June 21, white making a balloon ascension and parachute jump with the Miller & Freeman Circus. In alighting, after making the jump from the balloon with his parachute, he struck a two story house, causing a compound fracture of both bones of his left leg. He afterward fell to the ground, and sustained other injuries about the head and body. He was immediately removed to the Windsor House, and subsequently was taken to the Massachusetts State Hospital, at Boston, Mass., where everything was done to alleviate his sufferings. It was at first feared his leg would have to be amputated. A telegram since received, however, assured his many sympathizing friends that the limb would be saved. This is the second accident of the kind that has happened the show this season, Prof. Hathaway having been injured in precisely the same manner at Columbus, O., and being still on crutches from the effect of injuries received. Prof. Gillock made the ascension the following day at Fitchburg, Mass.

The tents of the Miller & Freeman Circus were blown down during a terrific gale June 23 at Leoninster, Mass. Hundreds of the spectators became panic stricken. The showmen suffered a loss of several thousand dollars.

Loa and Ruce do not go with the John B. Doris Circus, as has wrongly been stated. As a team they travel West for the balance of the season.

— Abbie Pierce will assume her old role of Mamie in Winnetti's new "Passion's Slave" Co. She will Summer on the Pacific Slope.

— "The Red Bandanna" is the latest in March songs, and, Judging from the hit which Fannie Lewis is making with it at the London Theatre, this city, it will eventually become a standard addition to the repertory of professionals who seek to win the applause of their audiences with songs that appeal to political topics. The composition is by M. H. Rosenfeld, who has done some clever work in this line before, and is said to surpass all previous efforts by this author. Charles W. Rhinehart has made the orchestral arrangement.

— Fred Hallen and Joe Hart were CLIPPER callers June 26. They are enthusiastic over the prospects of their farce comedy. "Later On," which they have booked solid to January, 1889.

— C. B. Hawkins is to tour in "We, Us & Co." over the popular price circuits, with John P. Slocum as his business manager.

— Some time ago Charles H. Thayer entered suit in Boston against Dion Bouchault for $1,800 for booking a tour for the veteran actor. Mr. Boucicault did during his last engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre, little imagining that he would have any trouble to get it back. The courts, however, decided in Tavor of Mr. Thayer, and the bond was forfeited. This is considered a great victory by the booking agents. Mr. Boucicault claims that he did not use the tour booked for him by Mr. Thayer. Still, he had to pay for it.

Yale Outrows Pennsylvania. The match race between the eight oared 'varsity crews of Yale College and the University of Pennsylvania was decided on the four mile straight away course on the Thames River, near New London, Ct., on Friday afternoon, June 22, and proved very uninteresting, for the reason that the students from the Nutmeg State were so greatly superior to their opponents that the latter had no chance to win at any time. The weather was pleasant, the water in admirable condition and all the conditions favorable in the extreme when, shortly before half past six o'clock, Referee Cowles gave the word. The Pennsylvanians got off with a good lead, but they were quickly rowed down by the Yalencians, who at the half mile point were half a length in advance and pulling a leisurely stroke of thirty to the minute, which was four less than the rate at which they struck the water upon starting. Their work was smoothly done, the men pulling well together, while their antagonists exhibited raggedness. From this point on the race was simply a procession, the leaders increasing their advantage without really exerting themselves, and, although losing several lengths by being obliged to row around a sloop that got across their course, they ultimately won by quite ten lengths, in the comparatively slow time of 21m. 19½s. There were few persons present at the race, the interest in the intercollegiate contests being centered in that between the University crews of Harvard and Yale. way course on the Thames River, near New Lon-

JOHN TERMER is announced to make two attempts to beat the best three mile sculling time at Geneva Park, N. Y., on Friday and Saturday of the current week. He proposes to give his partner, Al. Hamm, twenty seconds start, which he is satisfied will make him hustle to "get there" within the limit. We suppose he will also take proper measures to ensure correctness of distance rowed, that any record claimed to have been made will admit of verification. Teemer, Hamm and George Hosmer are to row in a race for prizes of $450, $150 and $50 at Cayuga Lake Park on July 12.

The schooner Grayling on Thursday, June 21, supplemented her clever victory at the annual regatta of the Atlantic Yacht Club by giving the fleet of the N. Y. Y. C. a full view of her stern al-most from the time of starting on the yearly race out to the Sandy Hook lightship and return. During the early morning hours the prospects of a good sailing day were the reverse of favorable, and the amateur sailors and their friends felt gloomy on account of the prospective fizzle. Instead of the hoped for stiff breeze, there was an alclose and hazy, and steam being necessary in some cases to enable the competing vessels to get to the line off Bay Ridge, while the people who filled the cases to enable the competing vessels to get to the line off Bay Ridge, while the people who filled the decks of the club steamer Tarus and her sister boat, the Cepheus, sweltered during the long wait, the signal to go not being given for almost two hours after the usual time. They went over the line in the foll wing order: Ramona, Miranda, Hidegarde, Katrias, Sea Fox, Fanny, Insuelt, Adelaide, Palmer, Troubadour, Dauntless, Grayling, Marguerite, Stranger, Thistle, Sachem, While-away and Regina. The boats got off well together, the wind being rather light and unsteady. The sloops Fanny and Hildegarde ran into the lead as they reached across the lower bay, but unfortunately what promised to be a very interesting contest between these rivals was cut short by an accident to the former, her topmast going by the board within a half hour after the start. This did not compel her withdrawal, however, and, under the circumstances, she performed remarkably well. The sail to the first mark was slow, the wind being too light to enable the larger vessels to fully display their qualities, especially the keel boats over which the centre-loaders had a decided advantage. The Grayling quickly assumed the lead of the feet, while the speedy Palmer headed the Dauntless and Ramona, the only other starters in the first class schooner class. The order and time of passing buoy No. 8½, on the southwest spit, the start having been made at 12.58, was as follows: Grayling. 2h. 17m. 00s. Fanny. 2h. 28m. 22s. Hildegard. 2 18 20 Palmer. 2 29 10 Katrios. 2 19 26 Miranda. 2 32 50 Sea Fox. 2 21 38 Marguerite. 2 33 06 Stranger. 2 24 47 Adelaide. 2 36 00 Stranger. 3 26 Miranda. 3 32 50 Sea Fox. 2 27 38 Marguerite. 2 33 06 Stranger. 3 46 1 Hildegarde. 4 46 15 Miranda. 3 46 16 1 Hildegarde. 4 46 15 Miranda. 3 46 1 Hildegarde. 4 46 15 Miranda. 3 46 1 Hildegarde. 4 46 15 Mir decks of the club steamer Tarus and her sister boat

The Grayling Wins Again, After a Sharp

Tussle with the Sea Fox. Better weather was enjoyed by the members of this club than by any of the other big organizations that have held regattas this season. The event took place on Saturday, June 23, when, although city bound folk found the heat more oppressive than on any previous day during the present Summer, the yachtsmen were favored with all the wind that they needed, and the laides and gentlemen who accompanied the white winged racers down the bay enjoyed a most pleasant sail. Again did the smart Grayling prove herself a remarkably fast boat, leading the feet at most continuously from the start, although in your commodore Canneld's new continuously from the start, although in your commodore Canneld's new continuously from the weather work, an advantage that was regained later on. At the time of starting the wind was from southward, a good sailing breeze, and the tide was the last quarter of the ebb. The Grayling, with ber usual quickness, was first to go over the line, followed by the Miranda and Sea Fox, the rest of the starters following in close succession. After passing through the Narrows the wind came fresher from a little east of south, and the smaller boats found it advisable to take in their light sails. Great interest was manifested in the sharp struggle going on between the Grayling and Sea Fox, the latter, to the surprise of the majority, gaining upon the leader, and at 1.52 she tacked across the bow of the latter and assumed command of the squadron, which position she held till after the >pit buoy was turned, tacking with the Grayling every time, and the latter securing no advantage through her supposed superior quickness in s'ays. Buoy 8½ was reached in the following order and time, the starting signal having been sounded at 12.50:

Sea Fox. 2h. 22m. 22s. Miranda. 2h. 50m. 45s. Grayling. 2 23 32

The run out to Sandy Hook Lightship was with the wind a trifle forward of the starboard beam, and the Grayling, after a sharp struggle, again took the lead. The Stranger also gained some distance on the Katrina, which had all along led the boats of her class easily. The wind increased in strength outside the Hook, and better time was made to the ship, which was rounded as follows: Grayling. 3b. 18m. 4s. Katrina. 3 20 05

CATBOATS sailed a sweepstakes race. $25 each, on the East River on June 22. The starters were the Jean, Triad and Jessels A., and they sailed over a triangular shaped course, from the foot of East Ninety-second Street over to Ward's Island, thence to the foot of East One Hundred and Second Street and return home. The course was to have been sailed over ten times, making a distance of about fourteen miles, but the Jesse withdrew on the fifth round, and as the Jean was nearly a circuit ahead after going over the course seven times, the Triad also gave it up and the Jean, which led all the way, was declared the victor.

THE REGATTA of the New Jersey Yacht Clubstarted on June 19, was only partially successful for although the contestants had an abundance of wind to start with, and until they got into the lower bay, a calm then fell upon the scene, and the boats were able to make but little headway against the strong flood tide. In consequence only three classes managed to sail the courses laid out for them, the first boats home in each being as follow: Class A, the Isis; class F, the Rival; class C, the Cruiser. The other classes will try again.

[Specially Reported for The New York Clipper.]
NRW YORK, June 25.—The tenth week of the championship race has just ended without showing any material changes in the standing of the teams of the National League or the American Association, or without witnessing any serious accidents to the players. The men, as a rule, are all in pretty good trim, and are ready and willing to do their ut most to win. Therefore, the indications all point toward this as being the grandest struggle yet seen for the championship honors. In the minor leagues some of the clubs have been less fortunate than those of the older organizations, but on the whole some of the clubs have been less fortunate than those of the older organizations, but on the whole there has been less wrecks reported thus far than at the same period in any previous year of the history of the game. This is certainly very encouraging news for the clubs, and the chances are that there will be more teams in at the finish of the race this season than was ever before heard of. The clubs should all be financially benefited. Many of them certainly deserve it for the energetic way in which they stirred about and the liberal manner in which they put ort their money to get the best talent available to strengthen their teams. This fact was particularly noticeable in both the National League and the American Association. In another week the Eastern teams will be in the West struggling with the teams at that end of the circuit, and some interesting results may be expected. The lovers of the national game in this vicinity will look forward with much interest for the showing made by the local feams. This being Brooklyn's first trip to the far West its every move will be watched with unusual interest. The team has not played with that dash of late that marked its work carlier in the race. Yet it is able to play a pretty strong up hill game, as this fact was beautifully demonstrated in the game with the Athletics, June 23, at Washington Park, Brooklyn. It was life and death, virtually speaking, for everything depended on the Brooklyns winning that game; and they did it, too, and deserve much credit for it, as it was one of the most exciting contests seen on those grounds this season. It required ten innings before a final result was reached.

While speaking of that game it might be as well to dwell upon a decision made by the lock well.

create for it, as it was one of the most exciting contests seen on those grounds this season. It required ten innings before a final result was reached.

While speaking of that game it might be as well to dwell upon a decision made by Umpire Paash in the ninth inning in declaring Clark out for being hit by a pitched bail. On what grounds he based his authority is not altogether clear. Many conclusions were jumped at by the spectators. The most absurd of these being a "foul strike." As Clark did not hit the ball or make any attempt to do so, the "foul strike." Tale does not cover the point. However, Rule 47, Sec. 5 says: "If the batsman plainly attempts to hinder the catcher from fielding the balls evidently without effort to make a fair hit," he is to be declared out. Yet this rule is hardly applicable to the case, as Clark went down to avoid being hit, but was hit while on the ground. It can hardly be said that he purposely threw himself in front of a badly pitched ball for the purpose of "hindering" the cajcher. If the umpire really believed that he did not try to avoid being hit, then he should have made him bold his position and returned the base runner to first, but not have declared him out. Such a decision is not an error of judgment, but is contrary to the rules, and he should have been compelled to rectify such mistakes.

Little Hughes fully demonstrated his ability to pitch in this game with the Athletics. It must be remembered that he was facing the stronges! batting team in the American Association with the memorable occasion, and those men were encouraged to do their best by two previous victories over the Brooklyns, but the sturdy little fellow proved himself equal to the emergency, and held the great sluggers down to five safe hits. Hughes and Clark make a fine pair, and should be kept together all the time. They play together like clock work, and it is a fact that Hughes has pitched better when Clark is behind him than at any other time. Keep Bushong for Caruthers and Foutz, when the latter is p obtained from the above named, barring all injuries, of course.

It was thought that the Brooklyn Club would have to go on its Western trip without Orr and Terry. Both are on the sick list, but it is hoped that they will be able to accompany the team when it leaves, or follow shortly afterwards. Orr will certainly be missed, both for his batting and fielding. Dave Foutz does very well at first base in an emergency, but he cannot fill Orr's place. Foutz has not got the knack of going down after ground hits like Orr does, and that lessens his value as a first baseman. However, he is a fine outfielder and a good batsman, and greatly strengthens the team while playing right field. While Orr is absent a change of Caruthers and Foutz might prove a great benefit to the team. Caruthers is good on ground hits. He is as good a fielding pitcher as stands in the box.

hits. He is as good a fielding plicher as stands in the box.

Terry and Peeples will be given a hearty welcome when they again make their appearance. Both have many warm admirers in the city of Brooklyn. Pinkney is playing great at third base, and his timely batting and swift base running wins many a game for his team. Geo. Smith has also shown a marked improvement in his worx of late. George is a wonder and must be seen to be appreciated. Little Paul Radford still keeps up his record as a phenomenon outfielder. He is a terror to all heavy batters, especially those inclined toward home run hits. The two and three baggers he prevents are too numerous to mention. The wonder of the team, however, is barby O'Brien. His workat the bat, in the field and on the bases, is equaled by few men in the profession. Darby worried considerable during the early part of the season, because he was not hitting the bail, nowwell he is just "lining 'em' for all they are worth. The New Yorks played five championship games during the past week and won three and lost two. That is not so bad after all. In their series with the Bostons they quit even, each taking two games. Then they went to Philadelphia and defeated the home team. Let them keep up this good work and they will soon retrieve their lost ground. They will be home the latter part of this week when they are acheduled for three games with the Washingtons, the last one July 2, after which they will go direct to Detroit, where they will open July 4 by playing two games. They have six games yet to play before going Weat and they should take at least of the eleven games against the Sactern teams. The make up of the New York team as it appeared in Boston and Philadelphia during the past week is undenstead the strength of the eleven games against the Sactern teams. The make up of the New York team as it appeared in Boston will be a superiors and certainly few equals in that position. Keefe and welch should do all the pitching while in good form, or at least the greater part of it. Give Thromb, or some one of the other teams. Such games as the New Yorks played while in Boston will keep all the other teams on the jump to defeat them. The team has picked up compared to the such as a strength of the such as a streng

CINCINNATES SAY.

The People of Porkopolis Plucky Yet-

General Cossip.

[Special Correspondence of The New York Clipper.]
CINCINNATI, June 23.—Despite the multitudinous disasters that have marked the course of the Cin cinnatis during the past month, there are many people who really believe that they are still in the race. Brooklyn has very few backers, and the idea prevails that St. Louis and possibly the Athletics will finish ahead of the gilt edged players in the prevals that St. Louis and possibly the Athletics will finish ahead of the gilt edged players in the city under the shadow of Liberty's statue. Up to today the Reds have played 49 games and lost 21 of them. Only five of these reverses occurred on the home grounds, and only 17 gaines of the 49 have been played here. Now, hereon is the cause to which Cincinnati has pinned both faith and hope with the charity of forgetfulness for past sins of omission and commission if the bracing up period (?) should really arrive with the games today and tomorrow in Louisville. Commencing next Tuesday the Reds commence the first Eastern series in the West with Baltimore, and before they will be called upon to again uesert their native heath for hostile soil, they are booked to play twenty-two games. With Elmer Smith in any sort of condition at all, the prospect of regaining lost ground is good. Then there is other room for that comfort that sustains the baseball fiend in the dreary hours of defeat. Twenty-one of the closing twenty-three games of the season are to be fought right here, and if there is a chance then to forge ahead Cincinnati will have an opportunity to embrace it. Of course, St. Louis will have the same chance, but if the struggle lay between the two teams Cincinnati would not fear to meet the issue. So far this season the Reds have won seven from St. Louis and lost six. The last six contests took place when the Reds were in a patched up condition, but there is no likelihood of a further continuance of accidents which have at times during the past month taken McPhee, Reilly, Mullane and Tebeau from the ranks. From sixth to second the Reds worked their way last year, and the struggles of the ansuing month may see them closing in on the three clubs that so recently passed them. Brooklyn is tumbling before the Big Bridge is out of sight and Manager McGunnigle's troubles have doubtless just begun.

Tebeau did not go to Louisville this morning. He was hit on the head by a pitched ball in one of the St. Louis games by King, and he has laid off ever since. He claims that while in the field chasting flies that he becomes dizzy. Tebeau's absence in left was followed by two remarkable shake ups. In the first Lonisville game the spectacle of three men out of their positions was presented. Corkhill was moved to strange territory. He played in left, while Reilly went to centre and Keenan was played on first. Yesterday the make up was just as queer. Fennelly was taken away from short and played in centre field, while Kappel was installed at short. O'Connor is still kept on the benches, much to his own disgust and to the wonder of the people, who cannot imagine what in the world he is kept on the pay roll for if he is not utilized when occasion presents. The trouble is O'Connor is unfortunate every time he is given a chance. In St. Louis he took charge of a choice collection of errors, and that is probably the reason he was given no show here. Tebeau's injury—which is by no means serious—brought about a change in three positions, while if O'Connor had been reliable there need have been but one. The question is being asked, what good are O'Comor and Scrad to the club if no confidence is placed in them? Serad knowing that he is simply an "emergency pitcher," only to be used when everybody else is knocked out, sick or peralyzed, cannot be expected to retain his heart. If he is not capable of filling the points as a regular clincinnati pitcher, then it is a shame to keep him idle when he c lyzed, cannot be expected to retain his heart. If he is not capable of filling the points as a regular Cincinnati pitcher, then it is a shame to keep him idle when he could be keeping himself in trim in some other club.

It is a source of considerable satisfaction to know that Louisville has finally turned the corner and has left bad playing behind. The team that played here yesterday afternoon with the mindy maroon colors of the Louisvilles was no more like the nine sad eyed gentlemen who were here in the Spring than a lot of break neck song and dance artisfs resemble an a-sembly of pall bearers. The life, the hurrah, the dash of the Louisvilles of '87 has been regained, and from this time forward Louisville will give a good account of herself. The Eastern clubs expect a picnic down the river. Instead they will furnish the corpse for a good sized wake. Werrick, Mack, Wolf, Ketins and Collins all hauled on the lines like a lot of heathen Dervishes yesterday, and they converted a dull game into about the liveliest contest of the year. Feter the Great was not the with Louisvillethis time. The big boy with the long bat has failen from grace, and his confreres left him its Kansas City carnestly endeavoring to put down all the whiskey in that corner of Missouri. Browning kept the pledge a little white-much longer than did Ramsey—but his appetite got the better of him. Kerins is playing in centre field in his stead, and doing as good work with the stick as Browning has so far this year.

McPhee has been batting splendidly since his return to second. In the Louisville game here he made 7 hits in 11 times at bat. Nicol won the game on the 22d, and it was the third eleven inning game he pulled out of the fire this year. A tantalizing drop hit just back of third allowed Vian Uscore the run that broke the ties and Nicol himself ran home on a throw of Collins that was sent a dozen feet wide. This has not been a very good week for Cincinnati pitchers. Brimingham has given both Yoss and Sullivan their waiking papers. In the

CHICAGO CHAT.

Playing Important Ball in an Atmosphere Too Thick With Politics.

(Special Correspondence of The New York Cupper) CHICAGO, June 22.—The National League leaders CHICAGO, June 22.—The National League leaders came back into an atmosphere so thoroughly charged with politics that they did not realize the importance of run getting in the first game with the Pittsburg Club. Pittsburg was Chicago's "hoodoo" last year. Duniap and his men were invinci-ble when they had Anson & Co. for opponents. The home team returned with a lead of 97 pc4nts, but home team returned with a lead of 97 p-4nis, but after one game with Billy Sunday's club the margin was only 68 points, for Detroit as well as Pittsburg won on June 20. The pitching of Galvin was as effective as any that has been seen here this year. It astonished the Chicagoans and delighted the Pittsburg folks who came to Chicago to attend the Republican National Convention. It is doubtful whether any contest on the diamond has ever been witnessed by such a distinguished company as that which appianded Pittsburg's victory over Chicago by a score of 3 to 0. Gen. Lew Wallace, author of "Ben Hur," had a private box. John S. Wise of Virginia was there; M. G. Butkeley, the first president of the National League; A. G. Mills, a later president; H. B. Winship, at one time president of the Providence Club; J. E. Allen, of the old Providence Club; Javid L. Houston, formerly an official of the Athletic Club of Philadelph'is, but now chairman of the Virginia State Republican Committee; John C. New of Indiana, J. Walter Spaiding of New York, Mrs. Hicks-Lord of New York, Senator Horr of Michigan, Mayor Roche of Chicago, Governor Foraker of Indiana and John H. senar for of Michigan, mayor docke of Chicago, Governor Foraker of Ohio, Marshall Field of Chicago, Governor Porter of Indiana and John II. Lynch, the colored orator of Mississippl, were among the throng that assembled to enjoy the exposition of the national game. Of the 8,000 persons present, fully 3000 wore the badge of some favorite Presidential candidate. The enthusiam was great, and the five hits made off Galvin were scattered.

favorite Presidential candidate. The enthusiam was great, and the five hits made off Galvin were scattered.

It goes without saying that the members of the Chicago Club were received with noisy demonstrations of regard. In the Pittsburg team Sunday was, of course, the favorite. He was presented with a costly bat in a box silver mounted and inscribed with his name. "Billy" proved to be as agile as ever. His fleetness as a runner and quickness as a thrower reduced Tom Burns' three base hit to an out at the home plate. On Thursday, June 21, Sunday's lightning like work nullified Pfeffer's two bagger, and Fred perished at third. Sunday is now a batter of marked confidence. Many think he will return to this city and play under Anson mext year. Thursday's game was lost to Pittsburg by Capt. Dunlay's lwo errors, both occurring in the third inning. Rain falling at the end of the sixth inninning. Empire Lynch called the game.

The members of the Chicago Club are delighted with their new club house, which is the largest, best furnished and most convenient which any organization of ball players can boast of.

Charley Kuhn, superintendent of the Chicago Grounde, and the expert authority on turnstiles in the West, was summoned to the Convention Hail this week to take charge of the turnstiles for the Republican Convention. His record made at the ball grounds and at the convention in one day is believed to excel any ever made in twenty-four hours by one man. On Thursday morning, June 21, he admitted 3,941 persons at one stile in Convention Hail. In the afternoon at the ball grounds he passed 4,509. In the evening at Convention Hail the to hear from lightning turnstile men through The Chipper.

A well preserved, rosy cheeked, handsome lady of fifty years witnessed today's game. She applauded every good piay with her gloved hands. But when Pfeffer held the bat or when he made a clever play at second this lady felt an interest so intense that she forgot to applaud. She is Fred Pfeffer's mother, and her pride in her son knows no bounds. She will accompany Fred on the tour to Detroit and Pittsburg next week. Pfeffer is a dutiful son, as well as a ball player who has not lost his head by success. Big head has killed scores of professionals, but the Louisville lad was never troubled with it.

Two weeks ago critics of Van Haitren were writing that the Californian had a "squaw heart." In the second Pittsburg game this week, when the umpire called the contest after six and a half tunings had been played, no base hit had been made on the young man's delivery.

Telegraphic advices from Boston are to the effect that the club management there are striving to secure the services of George Gore, the left fielder. With no disposition to be unkind to Gore, the feeling here is that New York would be stronger without Chicago's discarded fielder.

Charley Brynan pitched his first game today. For three months Anson had played him on the bench and at the turnstile. The youngster is a fair batter and has great speed as a runner and his work in the box was watched with interest. The feeling in the club concerning Brynan, previous to the battle of today, was peculiar. Nearly every man in the team has been his devoted—almost affectionate—admirer. Everything that the boys could say to influence Anson to give Brynan atthough some tempting effers were made. He did well to retain the young Philadelphian, for the game which Brynan pitched today stamps him as a superior man. He used the ball effectively, fielded in fine form and captured the crowd. Galvin was hit for eleven runs in one inning.

Duffly will play right field in tomorrow's game with the Pittsburgs. Borchers will pitch and Farrell will go behind the bat. Anson says liynan will hereafter get his share of pitchfing.

Dunlap has not played a strong game here this week.
Filmt is enjoying a long rest. It is probable the Chicago Club will pension him in 1900.
Milwaukee foiks are enthusiastic over their 'new ball wonder.' McAlcer, who will play centre field for the Cream City club. Manager filar paid for Mc vicer's release from the Southern League $1,000. His record in the Memphis Club was the best in that circuit. He is also a fast runner and can cover 100 yards, it is said, in ten and five-eighths seconds. He slides head first and bats freely. Milwaukee, now third on the Western Association list, expects to climb to the top. Today she is but 66 points behind St. Paul, the leader.
The Davenport, La, Club play the Whitings here on Sunday.
After tomorrow the Chicagos do not play on their own grounds until July 4. If they hold their lead on that date they should increase it materially during the nex' month, as they are at home until Aug. 4.

PHILADELPHIA PICKINGS.

The Quaker City Getting Excited Over

the Good Work of the Athletics.
[Special Correspondence of The New Fork Cityper.]
PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—This town is enthusiastic over the manner in which the Athletic Club has kept up the gait which it struck three weeks age, and every day the percentages of the three leaders, Brooklyn, St. Louis Browns and Athletics are compared and the home team's chances for getting towards the top are canvassed. Those chances even the most luke warm admirers of the chalences even the most luke warm admirers of the club concede are very promising. The team has reached its present piace of close third by goods solid hard work, combined with an element of luck which has, for a wonder, attached itself to them in recent weeks. Their record up to the conclusion of their Eastern series on Saturday last was thirty games won and nineteen lost. Three weeks age they were in fourth place. Now they have one foot on the line of second and are pushing the Browns hard. They got up to their present place by taking four straight from Chemmat, four out of five from Baltimore, three out of four from Brockin and four out of thee from Chemmat, four out of five from Baltimore, three out of four from Brockin and four out of thee from Chemmat, four out of five from Baltimore, three out of four from Brockin and four out of the from the said shows that any fears that were entertained in that direction were foolish as the only woming the 'Brideyrooms' made was Saturday's game on their own grounds. How near Sharsig's team is to champion form is shown by the result of the contests between these two strong itvals. Out of the twelve games they have played together Brooklyn has captured seven and the Athletics have taken eight games out of eieven. Next to Brooklyn, strange to say, the home team found their most formidable opponents in the Clevelands, but that was early in the scanson, the Athletics have taken eight games out of eieven. That's the reason why he has developed his conversational powers and why he exercises them so industriously. Ewing's batting, base running and fielding are not the only departments of baseball that count for his team.

Ewing's batting, base running and fielding are not the only departments of baseball that count for his team.

It is plain to us over here that Richardson has developed into a great second baseman. The manner in which he pulls down what with an ordinary player would be base hits, is really refreshing. There is no ball that goes in the vicinity of second base that is too difficult for Danny to try for. He does not play for a record, but for his side, all the time.

The Athletic Brooklyn game that was played in Brooklyn on Saturday, was scheduled for this city, but owing to the fact that New York was to make its first appearance of the season on local grounds, the Athletic managers thought; there would be more money in a transfer to Brooklyn. The Brooklynties thought so, boo, and Harry Wright was of the same opinion when Manager Sharsig spoke to him of the matter. Manager wright also scented large financial returns. The bad weather in this vicinity, however, gave another illustration of how "the best laid plans of mice and men gang oft agive." The attendance was very sparse.

The New York team, to the eyes of Philadelphians, looks much stronger than the Giants of last season. The outfleders show up particularly well both in fielding and stick work. Whitney at third seems to make that position stronger than it ever has been. He handles grounders cleverly, and throws with great accuracy.

Pitcher Kifroy, Barnie's erstwhile star, is in town, and he does not relish his lay off. He will remain in Philadelphia, and says he has no intention of going to Mount Clemens, Mich., to get into shape. Kifroy is evidently soured on Barnie for some reason or other.

The amateurs of this city had a parade on Saturday and they made a nice appearance. Unfortunately the rain poured down in torrents when the letter some home from heavy that it is the letter some home from heavy that it is the later of the scattering.

The two Brook lyn games were faitly patronized. The Philadelphias continue to play to a small attendance. Should they loom up and become the same championship factor they were last season the attendance would un-loubledly increase. Time and good playing only will demonstrate whether the advance can be profitably maintained here.

OUR BOSTON BUDGET.

Some Hubites Who, Think Third Place Will Satisfy Them.

| Special Correspondence of the New York Clipper | | Boston, June 24.—Those who have watched the | work of the Boston team during their play of the past month have come to the conclusion that if they finish in the third place they will be doing well. We are exceedingly indebted to Mr. Anson for rating us alongside of the Detroits and for telling us that between these two clubs will fie the second place. Baseball lovers here have not thought of ranking the Boston nine with the betroits. It is easy to see where we as well as other clubs like us, are deficient. It is not that Boston or New York has players inferior to those in the cago. It is in the way they are handled. That sums up the whole thing. The same condition of things prevails in faithingore, and has prevailed in the Athletic team of Philadelphia, and these clubs won't do better until the deficiency is remedied. In all these cases, nother are the men handled as they should be, and consequently the best work is, not obtained from the men. Here in Boston we have a superb corps of pitchers and fine individual players. Morrill, Johnston, Borning, Wise, are all superb players in their positions, but there is not that field discipline we see in the Chicago Cub, and we read about in the St. Louis Browns. Need I go on and speak of such an infield and outlied as have the New Yorks-Look, too, at their batteries. No nine in the country is equipped like this, and yet they are to day six games behind the Chicagos in victories and seven in losses when they ought to be fully that amount ahead. Money can't obtain the condition of things so cagerily desired in both Boston and New Yorks and the only hope for both seems to be that Anson and Comiskey can't keep on foreeyer. It's all non-sense to talk about that Chicago stone wall, as Brinfield is called. Take Anson away from that nine and the backbone is gone. He ta the-Napoleon of Josseball today. Wonder, indeed, is if that Boston is ahead of New York oday. That it is so is but a commentary on their work. I look to the Philadelphias to beat the Bostons and New Yorks out, as was the case has season. They have been most unfortunate in the continued disability of their men by illness or injury. I firmly helieve that had Ferguson been spared to them, the championship would have been their source.

Boston came home with a record of 19 victories and stefeats. Thus far they have played 21 games at home they would Bunker Hid Day, celebrated on the 18th, because the 17th was a Sunday, was intensely hot, yet 15,000 people witnessed the two gaines. Over 32,000 people witnessed the four Chicago games. "We would had won in Chicago, had the weather been fair," said Anson. Well, we'll see how they beat Boston in attendance on this coming trip.

Harvard was pretty blue at the close of the game with Yale Saturday, and the popularity of the sport, even in the colleges, was never so conclusively shown as by this brilliant crowd of overs 200 people who sat unsheltered, save by parasols, umbrellas, etc., while the sun came down to the tune of 100 deg. In the sun where they sat. No use talking, Harvard needs a grand, stand, at least for the ladies. The accommodations for representatives of the press could not be more inadequate. Anson need not pitch into Valentine. He got all from the latter he was entitled to. The truth was he wanted three games and it broke him up because he did not connect. Perhaps he forgot the barefaced way Boston was robbed in Chicago.

The New England League struggle is close as ever. Lowell leads with 21 victories, 14 defeats; Worcester, 21–15; Salem, 23–19; Lynn, 18–18; Manchester, 18–21.

Slattery and O'Rourke received fine florai tributes while in this city. The former also got a gold cane, and Ed. Craue received a fine crayon portrait of himself. All bave played in Boston clubs, O'Rourke with the Bostons and the others with the Boston Unions.

ST. LOUIS NEWS.

Masterly Monkeying With the Schedule —Cleveland as a Watering Place. [Special Correspondence of The New York Clipper.] St. LOUIS, June 23.—For a masterstroke of sche-

Brooklyn, for instance, must have had a glorious time of it in anticipation, for reference to their scheduc will reveal a state of affairs which should have proved of immense will be the their first realized, for instead of coming West on their first realized, for instead of coming West on their first realized for home with a very small margin in the least. The Browns are right on their heels, and the chances are by the time Brooklyn opens in Louisville on Tuesday, next the Browns will have jumped into first place. The Clevelands open here next Tuesday. We hope to knock them out for four straight. In the meantime the Browns play a regularly scheduled game in Kansas City to-morrow, and, if President Von der Ahe, who went to Kansas City tonight, is successful in his mission, one or two postponed games that Kansas City owes us will be played in Kansas City on Monday. The Browns were defeated today, which is an unexpected set back, although the Cowboys play good ball with Fagan in the box.

The St. Louis Whites have been a splendid feeder for the Browns. Jose Herr, their captain and shortstop, was called into service at Cincinnati when McGarr was totally unfit to play. Herr started right in as though he had been "one of us," as Robinson of the Browns sid, and has played up to the Browns' standard. He has not only fielded his position superbly, but his batting has been surprisingly good, sending many a run across the plate by timely batting. Then there is the veleran catcher, Tom Dolan, who has been surprising himself and friends by his excellent work behind the bat. His throwing to bases has been exceptionably good. With the acquisition of Herrand Dolan to the Browns' forces, the sale of Staley and Beckley to Pittsburg, Crooks to Omala, and the probable disposition of Nicholson to the Wheeling, West Va., Club, President Von der Ahe has not fared very badly with his association will now have to look elsewhere

STRAY SPARKS FROM THE DIAMOND. Gossip About Ball Tossers from Here.

Gossip About Ball Tossers from Here,
There and Everywhere.

After the New York-Boston game at Boston, June 20, the following report was sent out by the Associated Press: "Nash, Kelly and Johnston presented the New Yorks with a game today by wretched errors in the first two innings. After that the home team steadied down. Mickey Welch had the Bostons at his mercy and allowed them but three scattered hits." Then the full score follows. By a careful survey it will be seen that in the first inning the New Yorks were blanked. In the second they made two runs. While in the game the New Yorks are credited with eight runs, four of which are earned. Yet this person who sent out the report would try to have the public believe that the three aforesaid men had given the New Yorks the game, when at the same time he credits the New Yorks with four earned runs. Why write such rot? Isit because your local prejudices will not allow you to see your team defeated? If so, you should make your scores agree with your introductions.

The new pitcher recently signed by the Pittsburg Club turns out to be Knell of the Greenhood and Moran Club of the California League. He is now on his way East. Knell has a very good record thus far this season. He has pitched in twelve games and struck out 117 men. In those twelve games he went to the bat thirty-four times, made seventeen hits and twelve runs. The opposing batsmen hit him safely thirty-eight times, giving them an average of only 3.18 hits per game and earned only one run. He is only a young man yet, and with one season in the League it is thought he will be one of the most effective left handed pitches in the profession. He is expected in Pittsburg June 27, or thereabouts.

The remarkable features of the eleven innings game at St. Louis, June 19, between the Browns and Cincinnatis, were that the runs were earned, and nothing but single hits were made.

The directors of the Easton (Pa.) Club of the Central League have released Manager Abbott in order to reduce expenses.

It is said that Murphy is plaving for his release from Syracuse. He thinks that both the New Yorks and St. Louis Browns want his services. Sheriff O'Neill, of the Syracuse Club, says: "Mr. Murphy will not get his release, but if he is not careful he will get suspension or expulsion. There has been no offers from any club for his release, nor will we listen to any."

Brooklyn vs. Baltimore.

These teams met June 24 at Ridgewood Park, Brooklyn, and the visitors sustained a bad defeat.

Brooklyn, and the visitors sustained a bad defeat. The game was very one sided, Cunningham's pitching being badly punished by the home team, who made fourteen runs, earning ten of them. In the second inning the Baltimores made five of their seven hits and scored four runs. A home run hit by Farrell in the sixth inning ended the scoring of the Baltimores. Passch, who umpired, was objected to by the Baltimores, who only consented to accept him after considerable kicking.

Athletic vs. Brooklyn.

A streak of hard hitting at the finish enabled the Athletics to defeat the Brooklyns June 21 in Philadelphia, it being their fourth victory of the series. Caruthers was effective, except in the last two innings, when the home team bunched six safe bits, including a three bagger by Weyhing, and scored five runs. Poorman, who led in batting with four singles, also made a great running catch. Orr was was the only one of the visitors who could bat Weyhing, and he was credited with three bits, embracing a triple and two singles. Both teams presented their full strength, Stovey reappearing with the Athletics. Umpire McQuade was sick and Devlin took his place.

The twelfth game was played June 19, in Phila-delphia, the Athletics then securing their seventh victory of the series. Morrison and Seward were both batted hard and often, but the latter was better supported in the field. Morrison gave seven men their bases on balls and made three wild pitches, which proved costly. Lyons led in batting, making four singles. Seward batted over the left field fence for a home run. Robinson caught remarkably well. Two running catches by Welch, remarkably well. The entertainment given at the National Theatre, Washington, D. C., on the evening of June 23, in behalf of the Columbia surgical ward in the Garnleid Memorial Hospital, attracted a very large audience. The affair was given under the auspices of the Columbia Athletic Club, who deeply interested themselves in the charlable object for which it was held, and the entertainment was participated in by members of that organization, the athletic club of the Schuykill Navy, the Baitimore Athletic Club, and the two sword masters from the United States Naval Academy, while the music was furnished by the full Marine Band. Altogether it was a most enjoyable entertainment, realizing a handsome sum for the hospital.

CARTWRIGHT BEATEN.—The twenty-five mile running match between George Cartwright and Dave Bennett was decided at the Mutual Street Rink, Toronto, Ont., on the evening of June 18. After running five miles, during which they remained close together. Cartwright tegan to complain of his old hip trouble, and after finishing ten miles he abandoned the race. Bennett continued to run till he had covered fifteen miles, when he was allowed to stop, and was declared the winner of the event, which proved very disappointing to those who attended.

Match Off.

The match between Gus Guerrero and George Cartwright to run fifty miles, for $250 a side and the championship, at the Polo Grounds, on July 4, is off, owing to the failure of the Englishman to put up his second deposit of stake money, due at Tuc CLIPER office on Saturday last. Guerrero waspresent and staked his money, and upon putting; in a claim for the amount previously deposited, fifty dollars a side, received the forfest to which he was entitled under the conditions of the articles of agreement. Cartwright was handleapped by his hip trouble, it was stated, in both the races in which he took part during his stay in Canada, giving up rhat with Bennett after traveling about ten miles, for that reason, and it is probable that the likelihood of a recurrence of the trouble decided him to refrain from racing any more for some time. It is announced that he intends to sail for England on July 10. Guerrero is very much disappointed on account of the way in which the match has turned out, as he would much rather have run Cartwright than take the forfeit and he requests us to state, for the information of all runners, that whenever anyone wants to make a bona fide match with him, to run almost any distance up to a six days race, if they will signify their desire and put up their money in this office, he will accommodate them promptly.

THE RING.

Death of Johnny Lyng.

This old time member of the sporting fraternity died in this city on Monday night, June 18, and his remains were la'd away to rest in a vault in St. Paul's Churchyard, Broadway and Vesey street, on the afternoon of the 20th. Although almost unknown to the present generation, Johnny Lyng was among the most prominent of those who moved in sporting circles in the metropolis two score years ago, and was a conspicuous figure at all the great events of the period especially those of a puglistic character, in which channel his inclinations chiefly an. He was a great admirer of Yankee Sullivan and John Morrissey, and in the battles which the former had with Ben Caunt and Tom Hyer he was one of his seconds while in the memorable rough and tumbie fight between Morrissey and lift! Poole on the Amos Street dock, in 1854, Lyng was the only friend of the former present, and he was pretty badly handled by the partisans of Poole for attempting to pull the latter off when he had Morrissey on the ground, and all hands were having a kick at him. He was sorn in 1820, stood fully six feet in height, was well proportioned, and had the reputation of being one of the best rough and tumble lighters of his time, aithough he never sought to obtain laurels by figuring as a principal in the P. R. He was a resident of the Ninth Ward for many years, and there was a strong rivalry and bitter feeling between him and Hill Poole, who was also a resident of that section of the city. Like the latter he was a staunch American, but was inclined to be more liberal in his views than Poole, who at that time was looked upon as chief smong the leaders of the United American party here. Although not present a Stanwix Hall on that memorable night in February, 1855, upon which Poole was shot down in cold blood, the assassin, Lew Baker, was secreted in a room in Lyng's gambling house and saloon on the northwest corner of Broadway and Canal Street, for some hours afterwards, and the proprietor aided him in making his escape from the metropolis. Lyng was the p This old time member of the sporting fraternity ited in this city on Monday night, June 18, and his Alex. Davidson was Sheriff he was a deputy under him but since then he had not been actively employed. Among those who befriended "the old chief" were George Law and Jim Barclay, and the old man long made his headquarters at the popular saloon of the latter, corner of Sixth Avenue and West Tenth Street, where he was always welcome. The funeral services were held at the residence of his niece, the feet. Dr. Bouton officiating. Among those present at the funeral were Jim Kerrigan, Jacob and John Somerndyke, John Hallick, Dominek Lynch, Alexander and Thomas Edgar, Matt Moore, Billy Fracy, Jeff Weils, John Becker, Major Alexander Graham and two of the four children left by deceased who had long been estranged from his family. Lyng during his early mauhood for a time followed the occupation of stage carpenter and was also a volunteer fireman, running with Engine Company 6, which laid in Reade street, and afterward being a member of Engine Company 31, which was housed in West Broadway, He served through the Mexican War, went to Canfornia at the time of the gold fever, and returning to the metropolis became the proprietor of the Abbey, on the Bloomingdale Road, which was long a noted resort for sporting men and drivers of fast horses.

THE ENGLISH RING.—A mill with the "raw 'uns" took place near L ndon, June 9, the principals being Alf Estes and Fred Hudson, who tried conclusions All Bates and Fred Hudson, who tried conclusions for a small purse in presence of a select party. Thirteen rounds were contested in 19m. 50s., the battle being declared in favor of Hudson on a claim of foul, Bates having grabbed him by the thigh and threw him, this being his second offense of the kind. On the same day, Bill Gibbs and Ted Atterbury met near Cambridge, also with the bare knuckles, and fought forty rounds in 1h. 10m., when a draw was proclaimed both lads having badly damaged their hands, and neither bring able to finish the other. On the 12th abattle took place in the Weich Mountains, near Aberdare, between Harrison of Perth and Marshman of Fennale, the former winning after thirty-three rounds had been contested in about an hour and a half.

"Social Cranks" of Harlem.—Thanks for solution; luckly, the game fixes the status of the Black King in Prob. 1643 at Q sq. and Black is evidently to do the matins. Your own problem appears to have a second solution from $Q to K B 4+. what's to hinder? Hardly worth patching. We can confidently assert that both parts of Enigma 1,600 are correctly printed.

The Chess Monthly was laid on our table just at the last moment for this besue, and we summarize such terms as seem needful to be known in these parts: The programme of the Bradford-International Congress is now ready. S. Loyd, Mad. Hanham and Capt Macken zie are named to represent the United States. The Counties Ch. Association is looked upon as defunct. The provider of the Bradford-International Congress is now ready. S. Loyd, Mad. Hanham and Capt Macken zie are named to represent the United States. The Counties Ch. Association is looked upon as defunct. For the Ch. Chandicap, the second of the season; immensely popular and immensely enjoyable. The B. C. Chandicap, previously mentioned, is under way. The extent to which the gradation of classes is carried is wholly unique, we believe. First class—Messrs. Bird, Blackburne, W. M. Gattie, Gunsberg, Mason, Morfimer, Pollock and Zukertort; second—Hughes-Hughes, A. Michael and Wainwright; fourth—Sellon; fifth—Ingoldsby and Jetley; seventh—B. W. Levey; eighth—H. Hirschfield and Wyman; ninth—Dr Alderson, Tirce games per week; prizes, £3: "Not to know some trides is a praise," saith the philosopher; and the less we, over here, know of the Skipworth imbroglios, the Mr. Birds challenge to a match giving him Pawn and move ... Herr I. Gunsberg is on a brilliantly successful tour in the provinces... Mr. Bird is reported to be seriously ill. We are very sorry to hear it, and our warm sympathes go out towards our veteran friend. The Mas-n Pollock game was a draw, giving the norm home mympathes go out towards our veteran friend. The Mas-n Pollock game was a fraw, giving the norm home filboons fourth prize, Dr. P. dividing fifth with Mr. Sellon in the Divan bandicap ... Mr. Gattle's masterly review of "Cook's Synopsis" goes on; this number is devoted to the Bishop's Gambit—that "imperishable monument of human wisdom," as Janisch terms it...

THE JUSTLY CELEBRATED ACTOR, AUTHOR AND VOCALIST, IN HIS ORIGINAL VERSION OF THE BEAUTIFUL ROMANTIC IRISH PLAY,

O'BRIE

A Star of conspicuous brilliancy, whose lustre will shine in legend and history when all the rest have faded into oblivion. A truly gifted and handsome young actor, whose name is synonymous with artistic excellence, possessing the charm of creative genius and marvelous magnetism, sufficient to draw the masses and secure the encomiums of the most captious critics.

A SURPRISING SUCCESS IN NEW YORK.

THE ENTIRE PRESS UNANIMOUS IN HIS PRAISE. COMMENDATORY REMARKS BY MANAGER F. B. MURTHA. LD: He is an able exponent of Irish comedy; his abrupt shifts from pathos to humor w. Charles Erin Verner, as Shamus O Brien, is forceful and picturesque.

D: That very clever Irish comedian, Charles Erin Verner, gave a very strong performance.

One of the best Irish actors seen here in a long time.

RAM: Throughout the entire piece the audience showed its appreciation.

SAL: Mr. Verner is a handsome young man and a good actor.

He sings well, moves with grace, and reads with intelligence.

He has every reason to feel gratified. His songs were a most enjoyable feature. Charles Erin Verner has played a very successful engagement at I consider Charles Erin Verner one of the best Irish Comedians on the stage at the present time, and his play of "Shamus O'Brien" very strong, interesting and full of splendid situations. Mr. Verner ought to be one of the best and strongest attractions the coming season, and only wants the opportunity to be a great

AMERICA'S FAVORITE JUCCLER!

Time tried in native and foreign lands! Time tried in white face, black face, and brown face, will soon arrive in New York after a wonderfully successful seven (7) months' tour of South America, Central America and the West Indies, with FRANK GARDNER'S AMERICAN CIRCUS. NEVER BEFORE did a juggling specialty meet with such a generous recognition from the press and public! "Utro's" and "call backs" in profusion. Extracts from the press translated from Spanish and French.

JUST A FEW SAMPLES:

Probably the best feature in the ontire performance was the beautiful and weird juggling of the "Nelsonia." slices a potato with a knife and fork is wonderful, while his feats with plates and baskets, and a hundred whether it be a man or woman, or from whence he or she comes we cannot say, but certain it is that the entertainment was new and marvelous, and the audience went wild with delight. "Nelsonia" is either from China or Japan The President and party occupied the principal palco.—G ACETILLA. San Jose, Costa Rica, But the best thing in all the show was the lighting like feats of juggling by a young and handseem specime for the North American Indians. His features were all new, and executed with more accuracy than even the many Japanese we have had here. He is a model or grace, and his costume was gorgeous! The Indian received several call backs into the ring, and well deserved them.—EL ISTMO, Colon, U. S. Col., Feb. 2, 1888.

The juggling by "Nelsonia," whom the playbill announces as a Fiji Pruce, received marked attention. The juggling by "Nelsonia," whom the playbill announces as a Fiji Pruce, received marked attention. A VICTORY FOR HANLAN.

A cable from Sidney, N. S. W., conveys the not unexpected information that in the scullers match decided near Rockhampton a few days ago Edward Hanlan again defeated the man from whom he first won the title of champion of the world. Edward Trickett. The match was for the goodly sum of $2,500 a side, and the Canadian oarsman won by half a dozen lengths. This furnishes conclusive evidence that, whether Hanlan has retrograded so much as his previous defeat by Peter Kemp would seem to indicate or not, the Queenslander has not improved sufficiently to be on an equality as a sculler with his old antagonist. Perhaps also indicates that the present champion Kemp, is really a vastly better man than he wa when he was repeatedly defeated by seconrate men in the international regatta on the Thames less than two years ago, Sup posing this to be the ease, and the detailed a counts received of the race between him and Hanlan for the championship last May cer tainly show that he fairly outrowed his opponent, our champion, John Teemer, will no have so sure a thing as he and his confident friends seem to imagine should be ever mee Sir Peter on the water; nor is there any rea son why the Australian should decline an formal challenge issued to him by the Ameri can, provided the latter is willing to follow our former champion's unwise example by under taking the long and expensive journey to th antipodes, and in the race handicapping him self by the climatic influences of that distan country

OUR FOREIGN ATHLETIC CONTINGENT.

The American amateurs abroad met with a hearty reception at the hands of their British brethren, who hope, however, to make it warm for them hereafter. The cable briefly informs us that T. P. Conneff of the Manhattan A. C. party won the four miles race for the cham pionship of Ireland, run at Belfast, June 16 and that at the meeting of the London Athletic Club at Stamford Bridge on the 23d A. A. Jordan, New York A. C., won the running long jump, clearing 21ft, 5in., and Conneff finished second in a mile race, the winner having beer conceded a start of 130 yards by him. On the same day, at Huddersfield, W. C. Dohm, N. Y. A. C., won a quarter mile race in 51 2-5s., h having started from scratch. The pres American contingent the stirred the Irish athletes into spirited action. Arrangements had at last mail advice been made for an international athletic meet ing to be held at Ballsbridge, near Dublin about July 7, at which the foreign teams had promised to compete. A match had also been arranged between the rivals T. P. Conneff and E. C. Carter to run five miles for a suitable prize, and the race will probably take place at the same grounds, and upon the date, about July 11, of the initial all around individual championship competition in that country. It will be seen from this that our amateurs are having plenty of work cut out for them.

LOVERS OF ROWING have reason to congrat ulate themselves that the ultimatum issu by J. A. St. John, the financial backer of Jake Gaudaur, embodying a threat to claim the championship in a certain contingency, has resulted in the ratification of the proposed double sculling match for the championship of the world and a suitable stake between Gaudaur and John McKay on one side, and John Teemer, the present champion, and Al. Hamm on the other, the challenge having emanated from the former couple, although the race was originally suggested by Teemer. It is stipu lated that the race shall take place on a lak course, where neither side can secure any advantage over their antagonists by reason of difference in stations at the start or in the matter of currents, etc., and should the matel result in a genuine contest that shall settle the question of relative ability between these high class oarsmen, as at present seems probable there should be a large crowd of rowing en thusiasts and others interested in the sport to witness the struggle

SECRETARY SHEPHERD, of the National Rifle Association, to whose decision has been left the disputed match between Messrs. Paine and Bennett for the revolver championship gave the parties interested a hearing in this city on Tuesday morning. There were present Chevalier Paine, his judge, Newton Dexter of Providence, and J. B. Fellows of Boston, who was judge for Mr. Bennett, the latter not considering that it was proper for either prin cipal to attend, notwithstanding that were so deeply interested in the result. grounds upon which the protest was made by Paine, and which resulted in the case being re ferred, under the articles, to Mr. Shepherd, detailed in a former issue, and consti futed the substance of the arguments submitted to the latter, who gave to both parties a full hearing, took the papers, and the gentlemen that he would send his decision to the stakeholder as soon as he had deter mined the matter in dispute. Whatever the decision may be, there is no doubt that it will be abided by in a sportsmanlike manner.

THE Monmouth Park Racing Association have concluded not to follow the example which, after the recent accidents at Jerom Park, the American Jockey Club felt impelled to set, regarding excluding steeplechases from the programmes at the meeting soon to open by the seashore. It has been announced that there will be two such events decided each week during the meeting. This alteration of their previously announced plans has, it is inderstood, been brought about by the interssion and arguments advanced in oppoition to those of the opponents of steeple hasing by the Rockaway Association and the Country Club, who are especially interested in the timber topping branch of racing, and are onvinced that it is easily possible to take such precautions against accident as will reduce to minimum the dangers which are admittedly attendant upon the sport as at present carried on at the courses of the majority of racing as sociations that do not confine their events to the flat. It is to be hoped that the soundness of their arguments may be made manifest at was a gathering estimated at fully twenty. ave thousand present at the opening of the Summer meeting at Washington Park, Chicago, on Saturday afternoon, June 23, and this notwithstanding the weather was indicative of rain, which did fall slightly during the second race, but it rather help-ed a track that was dusty. The main cause of the great gathering was the fact that the race for the American Derby was on the card, and among the starters was the famous Californian Emperor of Norfolk, whom all race goers were desirous of seeing perform. On the strength of the reputation e had already made this season in the South and

Saturday afternoon, 23, was made memorable by the creating of a new record by the fast Western colt Terra Cotta, who far surpassed all previous performances at a mile and a furlong, winning with ease at that from a strong field. The other races were generally better contested, and the time made in nearly every instance was fast, showing that the track was in capital condition. The weather was intensely hot, and the large half hold ay crowd in attendance aweltered and sizzled on the stand and in the always closely packed betting quarters. Still, despite the hear, all were well paid for their physical crosses. Sweepstakes for the control of the

The colored jockey "Cooley" stone had a diffi-culty with a German bartender named Henry Miller, employed in the saloon of Frederick Stenmiller, employed in the saloon of Frederick Stenzig, located in that notorious section of Coney Island known as "The Gut," on Thursday afternoyn, June 21. It was in regard to change for a five dollar bill, which Stone claimed the bartender had pretended to take for a one dollar note, with the deliberate intention of cheating him. Miller paid over the four dollars claimed by the jockey, but the latter, as he left the saloon, threatened to "get even with him." A few hours later he returned to Stenzig's in company with a colored companion named Merritt, and after a few words Stone drew a revolver and fired, the shot striking Miller in the left breast, close to the heart, and proving almost instantly fatal. Upon being arrested soon afterwards Stone claimed to know nothing about the matter, but he was identified at Stenzig's as the man who did the shooting. Merritt was also taken into custody, as were the young colored woman who passes as the wife of Stone, and a girl who lived with them, named Sarah Cook, the two latter being held as witnesses. Stone and Merritt were committed to jail to await the action of the Coroner.

Turfmen from all parts of the country were present at the sale of the sixty-four yearlings from the ent at the sale of the sixty-four yearlings from the California breeding farm of J. B. Hagzin, which took place at Madison Square Garden, this city, on June 25. William Easton held the gavel, and the first animal offered was the pick of the lot, being King Thomas, by imported King Ban out of Maud Hamfbotn, a full brother to those sensational performers King Fox and Ban Fox. The bidding on the handsome youngster, the last of the King Bans, was spirited, commencing with an offer of $5,000 from Walter Gratz, who, however, was soon out of the competition, as was Phil Dwyer, although the latter raised the figures to $15,000. The contest for the possession of the youngster was therea for between Appleby a Johnson and Senator Hears, the former bidding $16,000, while the other responded with an offer of $20,000. The price rose higher and higher by bids of $1,000 and $500 till the phenomenal figure of $38,000 was reached, at which he was knocked down to the bookmaking firm, who appeared determined to have the coit at any price. This is much the largest sum ever paid for a yearling. His new owners expect to win the Futurity Stakes with him, and if they are successful the price given will not have been too large. The total sum realized from the sale was $112,775, being an average of $1,752. The other principal sales were as follow: Chestnut colt by Iroquois-Letola, $5,500, sold to R. W. Walcher, bay colt by Watwick-Lady Middleton, $5,000, Senator Hears!. The latter bought ten head for a total of $18,752.

THE Northumberland Plate, of $5,000, a handicap for three year olds and upward, $125 each, the second to receive $250, two miles, was decided at the Newcastle and Gosforth Park meeting, Eng., June 20, the winner turning up in C. Perkins' Martin Bell, a comparative outsider, with Tommy Titlemouse second and Bellatrix third.
